Expect Transatlantic Ship To Be in Shape and Enroute to U.S. Wednesday

By CARL D. GROAT
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
MONTREAL, Que., April 23.—The relief plane, sponsored by the North American Newspaper Alliance and the New York World, landed on Greenly Island today after a 460-mile flight from Seven Islands, Que.

The Canadian Marconi company message received here said the plane landed at 11:40 a. m. The plane, which left Detroit last week, was loaded with supplies and repairs for the monoplane "Bremen," stranded on Greenly Island after a flight from Dublin, Ireland.

Four in Relief Plane
In the relief plane were Maj. James Fitzmaurice, the Irish member of the "Bremens," German-Irish transatlantic crew; Benoit Balchen, pilot; Ernest Koepfen, mechanic, and a representative of the flight's sponsors.

The Marconi company had word from its Quebec operator first and this was followed immediately by a flash from its Clarke City operator, announcing their safe landing.

Chamberlin Hops Off For Greenly Island

HARTFORD, Conn., April 23.—Clarence Chamberlin, first non-stop flyer to Germany from America, took off shortly before 11 a. m., today, for Greenly Island, to greet the first German non-stop flyers to America.

Wood and Schiller To Try Westward Crossing

MIAMI, Ariz., April 23.—Phil Wood, Canadian aviator, announced here today that he and Duke Schiller of the "Bremen" plane relief fame, plan a transatlantic flight from Ireland to Old Orchard, Me., next July.

When men's clothes are cut along siber lines they'll leave out the hip pockets.

NEITHER LAND NOR ANIMALS SIGHTED BY CAPTAIN WILKINS ON FLIGHT OVER POLAR FIELD

(By United Press)
GREEN HARBOR, Svalbard, Spitzbergen, April 23.—(Copyright, 1928, by United Press)—Capt. George Hubert Wilkins started from Point Barrow, Alaska, April 15, at 10 o'clock, Alaska time (presumably 10 a. m.)

He was obliged to change his starting point because the runway was too short for the heavily loaded monoplane, which weighs about 1800 pounds when empty and 3600 pounds when loaded.

The weight of the plane necessitated a runway of about five-eighths of a mile to achieve a speed of 50 miles an hour so that the plane could rise.

The newly selected starting point was bad because of loose snow, which had to be hardened.

Lt. Carl B. Eielson, pilot of the Arctic plane, was obliged to steer carefully over the uneven ice.

Captain Wilkins passed the places where Dr. Cook and Admiral Peary presumably had been and sighted grant land.

300 Miles From Pole
The modern air explorers passed about 300 miles from the north pole. The weather was fine then, although a little foggy. The plane flew at a height of 1000 feet.

Occasionally it was necessary to ascend to 3500 feet to get above the cloud banks.

The explorers sighted no land which had not been discovered previously.

There were no signs of animal life on the ice.

Wilkins' trip of exploration over the top of the world was made for the sole purpose of trying to determine where there was land where Admiral Peary thought he saw it. Wilkins purposely flew south of the north pole instead of across it, to carry out the scientific object of his flight.

Over Open Sea
Near Svalbard (The Spitzbergen archipelago) there was open sea. Captain Wilkins knew he was near land by two pointed mountain tops he saw on Karl's (Charles) Foreland, near Svalbard.

Then, with land in sight, a terrific snowstorm started.

Wilkins and Eielson knew they must land quickly. But landing was made difficult by the gale.

With consummate skill, Eielson managed to bring the plane to earth on Doedmannsoera Island (Deadman's Island). The plane stopped dead after a run of only 30 feet in loose snow.

Wilkins and Eielson had flown 20 1/2 hours at a speed of more than 110 miles an hour.

Previous dispatches had said that the two exploring airmen contemplated a landing on the ice.

Wilkins may leave Green Harbor in week

Dr. Burlingame In Answer To Nellie T. Ross

Says Democrat Is Tammany Incarnate and Prohibition Opponent

AL SMITH, wet Democratic presidential candidate, is Tammany Hall incarnate, trying to annex the White House to Manhattan Island, according to Dr. George E. Burlingame, acting pastor of the First Baptist church, who gave a sermon prelude last night in reply to ex-Gov. Nellie Taylor Ross, dry Protestant from Wyoming, who spoke here recently advocating Smith's nomination.

Dr. Burlingame reviewed briefly the political career of Mrs. Ross, who, "in the curious political epidemic which placed several widows in public offices formerly held by their husbands," was elected governor of Wyoming to complete her husband's term, falling of re-election.

An American, born in Missouri, an Episcopalian and the mother of four sons, Mrs. Ross, Dr. Burlingame said, came to California to plead for the nomination of a wet Tammany Roman Catholic as against a staunch dry western Roman Catholic, Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana.

Mrs. Ross spoke in Santa Ana last Tuesday night and Dr. Burlingame, in his prelude last night, made comment on her speech as follows:

Cites Third Objection
"Mrs. Ross declared that there are only two objections to Smith, his lack of sympathy for the prohibition amendment and his religion. She failed to mention a third, his affiliation with the notorious and corrupt political machine of New York City, Tammany Hall, of which organization he is a product and exponent and avowed champion. When Al Smith is in the White House, Tammany Hall will rule not only New York City and Albany, but Washington and the United States.

According to Mrs. Ross, prohibition is not an issue in the present campaign; but it is not given (Continued on Page 2)

Prior Agreement May Force France To Accept Treaty

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Possibility of a prior agreement among the United States, Great Britain and Germany, which virtually would compel France to accept the Kellogg plan for an unqualified renunciation of war was foreseen here today.

An attempt is being made to work out a formula under which France would join with the other powers in a treaty outlawing war without direct reference to the various reservations.

Reference was made to the various reservations which France has advanced. Although little hope was held out of reaching such a formula it was believed this course would be the only one possible under which the French demands could be fully met while the Kellogg plan would be preserved.

OUTCOME OF SINCLAIR'S TRIAL EXPECTED TO RESULT IN FALL INDICTMENT BEING DISMISSED

By HERBERT LITTLE
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, April 23.—Announcement of a government decision to drop the Teapot Dome inquiry indictment against former Secretary of Interior Albert B. Fall is expected this week, as a result of the acquittal of Harry F. Sinclair, Saturday, by the jury which tried the oil multi-millionaire on the same charge.

Former Crowe Sleuth Slain In Bed

CHICAGO, April 23.—Ben Newmark, former chief investigator for State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe, was murdered in his home here by unknown assassins last night.

The slayers, firing through a bedroom window, killed the detective with one charge from a sawed off shotgun.

POINCARRE GIVEN FRANCE'S VOTE OF CONFIDENCE

Election Trend Shows Approval of Premier's Government

By A. L. BRADFORD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
PARIS, April 23.—In one of the heaviest elections in French history, the nation's voters apparently have approved the manner in which Raymond Poincaré handled France's affairs for two years after becoming premier when France slowly was sliding toward national bankruptcy.

Approximately 10,000,000 of the 12,000,000 registered voters were believed to have cast ballots in the election to fill the 612 seats in the chamber of deputies. There were no startling changes, but every indication pointed to an expression of confidence in the Poincaré policy of stabilization and rehabilitation.

Minister of the Interior Sarraut, in charge of the elections, said that returns had been received from 602 of the 612 districts. He said 175 had been elected and second ballots must be held in the other 427 cases.

LINDY DISCUSSES PLANS FOR FLIGHT

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh conferred for a half hour today with Under-Secretary of State R. E. Olds.

It was understood they discussed plans for Lindbergh's proposed good will flight to European and Asiatic countries this summer.

MILLER SURRENDERS TO SERVE SENTENCE

NEW YORK, April 23.—Col. Thomas W. Miller, former alien property custodian, surrendered to federal authorities here today to be taken to the federal penitentiary at Atlanta.

Miller is under sentence of 18 months for conspiring to deprive the United States of his best counsel and services in the deal by which $7,000,000 in assets of the American Metal corporation, seized as alien property, was returned to foreign interests.

Hotels and Casino Collapse; Prisons Damaged, Allowing Convicts to Roam About at Will

RELIEF EXPEDITIONS FORMED

(By United Press)
ATHENS, April 23.—Reports from the district that was damaged by an earthquake over the week end today indicated that Corinth was in ruins.

It was not believed loss of life would be heavy, inasmuch as many residents had fled the city before the major earth disturbances occurred.

Advices today said that 11 were known dead in Corinth.

The bathing station at Lutraki, near the Corinth canal, was reported damaged and many hotels and the casino were said to have collapsed.

The canal was not damaged, but passage of vessels has been prohibited for the time being as a precautionary measure.

Advices here said the Corinth prisons had been destroyed and that the prisoners roamed at will through the stricken city.

The population was terrorized.

The most violent shock occurred at 10:15 p. m., Sunday. It was felt in Athens, but there was no damage here.

The government quickly organized relief expeditions.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, April 23.—The highest emergency parachute jump on record was made at Kelly field here today when the planes of Cadets J. S. Henderson and D. M. Swisher collided 9000 feet in the air. Henderson was killed, but Swisher made a safe descent in his parachute.

SHEDS BILL PASSED

WASHINGTON, April 23.—The senate adopted today without objection the house conference report on the watersheds bill, appropriating $8,000,000 to aid states in protection of watersheds.

The bill now goes to the president for signature.

THE CAMPAIGN LOG

By United Press
APRIL 23
Mayor James J. Walker of New York, has been selected tentatively to place the name of Governor Alfred E. Smith in nomination at the Democratic National convention.

Governor Alfred E. Smith was enroute to New Jersey from Asheville, N. C., where he has been on a vacation. He will spend a few days in New Jersey before returning to New York and Albany.

Alfred E. Smith, Jr., planned a conference with Tom Taggart, Indiana Democratic leader, today, but said it had no significance.

Governor Allan T. Fullerton, of Massachusetts, in paid advertisements today urged Massachusetts voters to write in the name of Herbert Hoover as the Republican presidential nominee at the state primaries tomorrow.

William Allen White and Henry J. Allen, Kansas Republican editors, in statements to the Hoover for President committee, said the state fight was for Charles Curtis but in event Curtis was not nominated the state would assuredly give its vote to Hoover.

SINCLAIR LEWIS ENGAGED TO WED

ROME, April 23.—Sinclair Lewis, the novelist, told the United Press today he was engaged to Dorothy Thompson, former Berlin correspondent of the New York Evening Post.

"Miss Thompson and I are engaged," he said. "It is official now."

Call Off Hearing On Plan To Raise L. A. Water Rates

LOS ANGELES, April 23.—The public hearing on the proposed plan to increase water rates as a means to pay damages resulting from the St. Francis dam break has been postponed indefinitely, it was announced today.

Councilman P. M. Hall, head of the water and power committee of the council, said that body would require more time to consider the various plans of raising money to pay the flood debt.

ORDINANCE TO BAN SEX PLAYS ADOPTED

LOS ANGELES, April 23.—A special ordinance, designed to prohibit the screen or stage to show plays of sex degeneracy, was adopted by the city council today.

The ordinance, the direct outcome of the failure of a jury to find producers of the stage play "The Captive" guilty of presenting an obscene production, was passed without a dissenting vote and after rules were suspended.

SMITH BELIEFS CAMOUFLAGED. PASTOR CLAIMS

either to Mrs. Ross or to Governor Smith to determine what the issue is. In any presidential campaign it is inevitable that the entire public record of a candidate shall be an issue and the record of Al Smith on the liquor question is consistently and positively and hopelessly wet. Until political expediency forced the amazing somersault which presents him as the champion of law enforcement and the staunch defender of the eighteenth amendment, Al Smith was the outspoken and delirious opponent of all legislation aimed at the suppression of the liquor traffic. He and his managers recently have manifested an astonishing measure of confidence in the credulity of the American people by calling attention to his respect for the Volstead law (slightly modified, to be sure) and his reverent regard for the prohibition amendment as the law of the land. This is all for the benefit of the dry and anti-Tammany Protestants without whose votes Al Smith never can reach the White House.

"Clever Camouflage"

"Back of the clever camouflage now devised in the desperate game to win the presidency is the real Al Smith, as revealed in the utterance of one of his most intimate friends and political allies. On July 4, 1923, at a great celebration at Tammany Hall, the chief speaker was the late James Gallivan, a congressman from Boston, a Roman Catholic and one of the most aggressive leaders of the movement to nullify the eighteenth amendment. In a bitter tirade against President Harding, who was at that time promising to enforce the Volstead act more vigorously, Gallivan, as the spokesman of Tammany and of Tammany's candidate for the presidency, said: "I sincerely trust that President Harding will stop, look and listen before he goes much further. He is nearing a political railroad crossing and if the water wagon he now is riding comes into collision with the locomotive of public opinion he will be spilled and injured. It is of more importance to him to preserve the dignity and honor of his high office by guarding the integrity of the constitution and all that it means than to curry favor with the enemies of law and order and American liberty, with the bigots, bullies and blatherers of prohibition."

Says Courage Applauded

"Every sane American has applauded Governor Smith and his courage and dignity with which he formed his approval of the repeal act. Only the parasites and mercenaries who live on profits of prohibition thunder and threaten. Governor Smith, of New York, by his sanity, sound Americanism, political courage and outspoken contempt for the pharisees and mercenaries who are seeking to wreck this republic with all its splendid traditions and achievements, has made himself the most talked of man in America and displayed to the admiration of his country a fearlessness and character of leadership we would like to see in the White House."

"This is the real Al Smith, of whom his political friends are so proud for his repeal of the New York enforcement act and for his hatred of bigots, bullies and blatherers of prohibition; whose votes he now so ardently craves. We may as well put a fox in charge of the chicken house as to elect Al Smith to enforce the Volstead act, which his spokesman, Gallivan, terms the filth of prohibition. Prohibition is the irrepressible issue in this campaign and Al Smith incarnates to the utmost the forces opposed to the Volstead act and the eighteenth amendment. It should not be overlooked that among his strongest supporters is the Association Opposed to the Prohibition Amendment, whose candidate he is."

All Citizens Not in Office

Dr. Burlingame commented on the assertion of Mrs. Ross that "after 150 years of national life, it is time we settled the question for our country not entitled to full citizenship." In rebuttal of this statement, he declared that one may possess full citizenship without having a seat in the White House or even in the city council. Public office and a salary from the public treasury are not guaranteed to every citizen, but only the right to run for office and to serve if qualified and elected. Roman Catholic office holders are by no means a novelty in America. Two Roman Catholics have served as chief justices of the supreme court. The present congress includes five senators and 35 congressmen who are Catholics, he said.

"The fatal fallacy in the appeal of Mrs. Ross for 'full citizenship' for Roman Catholics is in her insistence that dry anti-Tammany Protestants shall furnish the votes necessary to elect a wet Tammany Catholic to the presidency. According to the latest Roman Catholic Year Book, the total constituency of the Roman Catholic church is 19,689,040 in a total population of 120,000,000, or about one in six. When America wants a Roman Catholic president, America will have one in the constitutional way by the vote of the people. America never will have a Roman Catholic president, or a Jewish president, or a Negro president, or a woman president, or a white American Protestant dry male president, in any other way than in the way provided in the constitution. The road to the White House is open to Al Smith as freely as to any other American citizen; but it is asking a good deal of the 100,000,000 non-Catholics to elect a representative of the 19,700,000 Catholics to the presidency with the definite assurance of his purposes to overthrow the law enacted by 45 states of the union in accordance with the wishes and prayers of the non-Catholic Christians, whom the Tammany orator denounces as the evangelical enemies of law and order, the bigots, bullies and blatherers of prohibition and Volsteadism."

Urges Walsh Support

In conclusion, the speaker urged all Democrats to vote for the Walsh ticket, calling attention to the high character of the delegates named on that ticket, including Mrs. Kathleen Norris, a devout Roman Catholic and friend of prohibition; Mattison B. Jones, an eminent Baptist lawyer and churchman, and Nathan Newby, long prominent in the fight against the liquor traffic.

G. O. P., Bourbons Name 200 Delegates Tomorrow

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, April 23.—This is the big week in the primary campaign. Nearly 220 delegates will be selected for both the Republican and Democratic conventions in primaries Tuesday in Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and Ohio.

The Republican battle in Ohio is the most important of the three. There an acid test of the candidacy of Secretary of Commerce Hoover will be made against the opposition of a slate of delegates pledged to the name of the late Senator Willis, but now known as "Hoover opposition delegates."

Ohio Has 51 Votes

The state has 51 votes in the convention. Political observers believe the delegates may be split about evenly, but a decisive victory or defeat for Hoover would have a material effect upon his candidacy nationally.

Importance of the Republican primary in Massachusetts has been diminished somewhat by the edict of President Coolidge, last Friday, requesting that the campaign to write his name in on the ballot be dropped.

The Hoover organization has been built up throughout the state and claims have been made by his managers that he will get the major portion of the 39 delegates.

Mellon Delegates Expected

A delegation dominated by Mellon-picked candidates is expected to be chosen by Republicans of Pennsylvania, where the campaign has not been as active as in Ohio and Massachusetts. Secretary of Treasury Mellon, with Senator-elect Vane, of Pennsylvania, usually dominated the Republican party of the state and they are seeking an unopposed delegation.

The Democratic primaries in all three states have less significance than the Republican fights. In Ohio, a delegation instructed for former Senator Alton Pomeroy is expected to be named.

Smith will get the 36 Massachusetts delegates without trouble and is expecting 60 of the 76 Pennsylvania delegates.

Great Activity Marks California Primary Race

By GERALD P. OVERTON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
SAN FRANCISCO, April 23.—The California presidential primary race went into its final week today with great activity in evidence at state headquarters of the one Republican and three Democratic candidates entered in the contest.

Although Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce, was without opposition for the support of California Republicans for the presidential nomination, the drive to secure a large vote for him was just as intensive as in the Democratic ranks.

Numerous meetings throughout the state were planned for the last week of the campaign by the Hoover organization. Women workers were engaged in a systematic effort to insure an impressive turnout of Republican women for the balloting.

Big Hoover Rally

In San Francisco a big Hoover rally was planned for Thursday, at which Marshal Hale will preside. All the California delegate candidates on the Hoover ticket for the primary election were invited.

The Hoover leaders stressed again and again the necessity of rolling up a large vote for the secretary of commerce in the primary next Tuesday.

Failure to show the necessary voting strength in California, where his candidacy is regarded as that of a "native son," might be seized upon by his foes with fatal results at a critical moment in the Kansas City convention, it was pointed out.

The wet and dry issue was again injected into the fight of Gov. Al Smith, of New York; Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, and Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, for the California delegation to the Democratic national convention as the campaign drew to a close.

Smith Candidacy Assailed

Kathleen Norris, noted writer, bitterly assailed the candidacy of Smith and said his nomination

In Hollywood.

Mrs. Ward was a native of Colorado Springs and had been a resident of California for the last five years, four of which were spent in Santa Ana. She came here with her family from Salt Lake City, locating in Orange.

No funeral arrangements have been made, pending word from Mrs. Forbes, in Colorado Springs, it was said.

Witnesses To Be Called

Several witnesses to the accident are expected to be called for an inquest over the body, which will be held in the Winbigger Mission funeral home, at 9 a. m. tomorrow. They are C. S. and Neal Minter, Orange, route No. 2, and A. R. Marshall, 2201 North Baker street, Santa Ana.

Adrian Alcala, Center street, Delhi, was slightly injured at 8:45 p. m., yesterday, when he was run down by an automobile driven by Andrew Carroll, 427 McCloy street, Santa Ana, near Delhi, according to a report filed by Carroll at the sheriff's office.

Carroll reported he was blinded by the lights from another machine and did not see the man walking in the road. After receiving medical aid in the county hospital, he was removed to his home.

She also took a fling at Senator Reed and declared the candidacy of Senator Walsh stands for the principles for which California women are fighting.

She is a delegate candidate on the Walsh ticket, which is headed by the name of William G. McAdoo, himself a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1924.

Henry H. McPike, chairman of the Smith organization, announced today that a number of rallies will be held throughout the state during the week.

The Smith campaign in northern California will be climaxed by a meeting Thursday night, at which Mrs. Nellie T. Ross, former governor of Wyoming, and James D. Phelan, former senator, will be the keynotes.

For McAdoo in 1924

Phelan was the man who placed McAdoo in nomination at the Democratic national convention four years ago, and in supporting Smith he broke away from the McAdoo organization.

Reed's organization managers said he was "in the fight to stay until the end of the balloting in the Houston convention."

They interpreted the heavy Democratic registration figures in the state as a sign favorable to Reed's candidacy.

After the California primaries, on May 1, the next big event on the Pacific Coast political calendar will be the Oregon state primaries, on May 18.

lated a flight by way of Oslo and Copenhagen to Paris.

The flight would take them out of the northland much ahead of time when they could leave for civilization by boat.

Ice Jams Until Mid-May

The ice jams surrounding Green Harbor probably will not break up until mid-May and no boat could get in until then.

Congratulatory messages were pouring in to the flyers today. Roald Amundsen was among the many to congratulate Wilkins and Eielson. His message said:

"It was a splendid exploit—not only a sporting feat, but a flight with a plan. General information Wilkins and Eielson obtained will be of great interest to geographical science, even though there could have been no exact observations. I believe the flight to have been the most remarkable in aviation history. Unlike transatlantic flyers, Wilkins and Eielson could not count on assistance of any kind. They are heroes," Amundsen said.

Fridtjof Nansen, one of the most famous Scandinavian explorers, said:

"Real Heroism"

"It was a flight that required real heroism."

Both Wilkins and Eielson were reported in the gayest of spirits today and Eielson cabled his father in America:

"Am all right. Soon returning to the United States."

Over Sunday, flags were flown at full mast throughout this northern territory in honor of the bravery and daring of the two men.

Byrd-Wilkins South Pole Race Seen Possible

LOS ANGELES, April 23.—The possibility of an airplane race through the Antarctic to the south pole was broached here today.

Discussing the recent north pole flight of Capt. George Wilkins, Allen Lockhead, head of the firm which manufactured the explorer's plane, said that Wilkins next would attempt to span the south pole.

Lockhead said that plans for this adventure had advanced so far that it was imperative that Captain Wilkins return here within five weeks. Lockhead indicated the south pole expedition would be made in the fall.

Com. Richard E. Byrd already has announced his intention of taking a scientific expedition over the south pole next fall, promising a contest between Wilkins and Byrd for first honor.

Lockhead declared that Wilkins' complete plans could not be made public.

L. A. MAN ARRESTED ON CHECK CHARGES

Fred Walton McCoy, 28, 507 Towne street, Los Angeles, was arrested Saturday afternoon by city officers and lodged in the county jail on a check charge, because he gave his "client" time to check up on him before he returned for all of his money.

McCoy cashed a check at the pool hall of Reuben Coffman, Fourth and Artesia street, Friday, for $33. Coffman gave him $7 and told him to return the next day for the balance. When McCoy returned, he was placed under arrest, for Coffman, in the meantime had made an investigation and determined the check was worthless, he said.

Officers were to arraign McCoy before Justice Kenneth Morrison this afternoon on the charge.

'ROUND THE HORN' PLANE IN SONORA

EL CENTRO, Calif., April 23.—The "round the horn" plane, piloted by Jimmy Angel, was expected to leave Hermosilla, Sonora, Mexico, today, for Guaymas, in the same country.

An inadequate gas supply caused a landing at Hermosilla late yesterday. Angel is accompanied by Preshe Stevenson and W. C. Benton. The flight started in Fresno.

Court Notes

Pleads Guilty
Anticho Sanchez, 40, pleaded guilty to owning and operating a still. He appeared in Superior court and asked for probation. A hearing will be conducted Friday at 9:30 a. m. No evidence was introduced to indicate whether the age of Sanchez's liquor is described by his first name.

Desertion Charged
Charging that his wife deserted him in 1927, Albert M. Robinette today filed a divorce complaint against Nellie Ruth Robinette. The complaint stated that they were married in 1909 and that they have no children.

Asks Return Of Rig
The return of a rotary drilling rig alleged to be worth $3000, or its value in money if it cannot be returned, and in addition a rental value of $25 a day for the time it is adjudged to have been illegally detained, are asked by Claude E. McIntyre and George W. McIntyre in a case filed today against Sain N. Lewis and the E. A. Fenell company. They claim that the defendants have the rig and have refused to deliver it.

Local Briefs

It cost Earl Smith, prominent Los Angeles contractor, $450 to get drunk in Newport Beach, that amount being assessed when Smith appeared before Police Judge W. A. Leonard in the beach city. He was fined $200 for being intoxicated, $250 for reckless driving and his driver's license was revoked. Smith was arrested by Officer Earl Nickles.

An interesting china display will be on exhibition at St. Ann's Inn Tuesday and Wednesday. The display has been brought to Santa Ana under the auspices of the Wiesseman china store. Anyone interested in the many new kinds of china is invited to inspect the exhibit which is valued at more than $5000.

JACK E. ADAMS SURRENDERS TO SHERIFF TODAY

Jack E. Adams, 51, wanted here in connection with the case of J. B. Neel and George S. Johnson, Laguna Beach officials, charged with conspiracy to violate the corporate securities act of California, voluntarily surrendered to Sheriff Sam Jernigan, at his office, this morning.

The object of a search by the sheriff since last January and the victim in a fight for extradition from a Florida town, where Jernigan had him apprehended in February, his voluntary surrender this morning, came as a complete surprise to officials.

Adams is charged on six counts of conspiracy to violate the California corporate securities act, together with Johnson and Neel. He is charged with offering for sale and selling stock in the Coast Industries, Inc., without the authorization of the state commissioner.

Johnson and Neel were given their preliminary examination in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court several days ago and were held to answer to the superior court.

Soon after Adams, accompanied by his wife, surrendered this morning, he was rushed to Morrison's court where he was arraigned on the six counts in the complaint and his preliminary examination set for May 9, at 9 a. m. Bail was fixed at $5000, the same as placed over Neel and Johnson.

Attorney for Adams, who accompanied him to Santa Ana, made an effort to have the amount of the bail reduced, but unsuccessfully. He brought out the fact that Adams had come voluntarily to Santa Ana to surrender, "and to exonerate his name in this affair," the attorney said.

Sheriff Jernigan, since his failure to bring Adams back from Florida had circulated the entire United States in another effort to capture Adams, and was prepared again to combat attempts by Adams to fight extradition.

Arrest Employee Of Four Square On Drunk Count

LOS ANGELES, April 23.—R. A. Simpson, 27, said to be advertising manager for the various publications of Almee Semple McPherson's Four Square Gospel, was arrested here today on a drunk charge, police reported.

According to officers Simpson and a girl, who refused to give her name, embarked on an early morning mission of door bell ringing, automobile horn blowing and other Halloween antics. Simpson was playfully pushing his fists through the window screens of an apartment on North Westmore street when police arrived.

PLEADS GUILTY TO CHARGE OF GRAND LARCENY

A. Quintero, 20, thought he was not guilty of grand theft because he and his pal were arrested before they made a getaway with the roadster they were trying to steal. Consequently he entered a plea of not guilty last Friday when Deputy District Attorney Sam Collins haled him into superior court.

Quintero admitted today, however, that he had intended to lure the car away. But he still was uncertain as to whether he was guilty. How can a man be guilty, he reasoned to himself, when he doesn't steal anything?

At the request of Collins, Superior Judge James L. Allen instructed Quintero today on this point of law and showed him, through Charles Carrillo, interpreter, that the intent to take the car was all that was necessary to make him guilty. Quintero's failure to make good his attempt did not alter the situation, he said.

Quintero finally pleaded guilty and asked for probation. The hearing was set for next Friday at 9:30 a. m. His pal in the affair will be taken through the juvenile court.

TWO ARE FINED AS RECKLESS DRIVERS

Charged with reckless driving, two motorists were each fined $250 in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court this morning. They were Sam Painslow, 32, Los Angeles, and Albert L. Boyce, 37, Costa Mesa. Both had been drinking at the time of their arrests, Judge Morrison said.

The two were arrested at San Clemente yesterday when they failed to stop for immigration officers, who were "working" the traffic at that point, it was said.

Both were arrested by Chief of Police F. J. Eaton, San Clemente and lodged in jail here. Neither was able to pay his fine.

AT LOCAL CHURCH TUESDAY

Below are pictured the Rev. Phillip S. S. Yu and members of his party who will be at the First Methodist church tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock as guests at a public reception.

Chinese Delegates to Big Methodist Conference to Be Church Guests

Word was received this morning by the Rev. Harry W. Worley, 1104 Hickory street, that the group of Chinese from Foochow, China, who were to be guests at a public reception at the First Methodist church tonight will not arrive until tomorrow. Consequently the program as arranged for tonight will be given tomorrow night at the church at 7:30 o'clock.

A wire received this morning by Dr. Worley said the Chinese had been detained in the north.

The men are delegates to the quadrennial session of the general conference of the Methodist church to be held in Kansas City on May 1. While here they will be guests of the Rev. Harry W. Worley, 1104 Hickory street, head of the union theological seminary at Foochow, who is spending his furlough in Santa Ana.

The men composing the group are the Rev. Phillip S. S. Yu, S. K. Hsu, E. K. Wang and Dr. Ralph A. Ward, the latter an American.

The Rev. Mr. Yu has the distinction of being one of the few Christian scholars granted degrees under the old Manchu dynasty. He was pastor of the largest Methodist church in China, and then district superintendent for a term. In 1916 he came to America as delegate to the general conference. He stayed in America several years, helping in the organization of the missionary centenary, and studying in the New York Bible school, from which school he graduated in 1920. For a period during the World war he was religious worker with the Chinese labor battalion in France. Since 1920 he has been professor of church history in the Union Theological school.

NO APPLICANTS FOR SCHOOL BOARD JOB

Although there is a perfectly good position on the board of education waiting for someone to fill it, there have been no applications for the vacancy, according to information received today from the board of education office.

The opening was created when George Duntun, former president of the board, resigned two weeks ago.

There have been rumors that an appointment from Costa Mesa would be made in filling Duntun's place, but the board had taken no action in the matter and has passed on no applications, it was said.

The board will meet tomorrow night, when the subject probably will be discussed.

BOYS WEEK IS TO BE HONORED IN SANTA ANA

According to plans worked out by the special committee of the Y. M. C. A., National Boys' week will be observed locally by numerous organizations, during the week of April 23 to May 5.

R. H. Silverthorn, W. G. Stauffer, and L. R. McMullen comprise the special Y committee on Boys' week. They have planned for various program numbers to be presented by boys at meetings during the week, and have aided the program committees in preparing special schedules centering on work for boys.

As announced by Silverthorn, there will be special boys' week programs next week at the Kiwanis, Lions, Rotary, Round Table, and Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

Special services in observance of the occasion will be held at some time during the week at the Richland Avenue M. E. church, the United Brethren, the First Christian, the United Presbyterian, the Evangelical, the Reformed Presbyterian, the South Methodist, the Congregational, and the First Presbyterian churches.

Many of these services will be held next Sunday evening, at the regular church service. National Boys' week is devoted to promoting the interests of boys and the work for boys. It differs from father and son week in that it is the purpose to permit the boys to demonstrate at this time some of the things that they are accomplishing in their various lines of work and play.

The events scheduled by the committee in charge are such as will give the boys an opportunity to show people what they are doing, and bring adults into a more sympathetic and understanding relation with the organized work for boys in the community.

Throughout the week, the two junior high schools will give much attention to the idea of week in their student activities. Principals Kellogg and Nelson are working with the boys to provide useful programs in their respective schools. In addition to school activities, the boys of these schools are to be special guests at the Y. M. C. A., building for events during the week.

Father And Two Sons Arrested

Following an automobile accident near the Pacific Electric tracks and West Seventeenth street last night, a father and his son, William Lloyd, 50, and Ray Lloyd, 23, were arrested and lodged in the county jail.

Today, the elder Lloyd was sentenced to serve 30 days in the county jail on a drunk charge. Ray Lloyd is charged with reckless driving and had not been brought to court late today.

According to a report filed at the sheriff's office, the Lloyd machine crashed with a car driven by Emilio Chavel, Seal Beach. No one was reported injured in the accident.

DR. RHODES TO TALK ON DEATH VALLEY

Death Valley in pictures and story will be the subject of an address to be given on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock in the lobby at the Y.M.C.A. by the Rev. Moffett Rhodes, pastor of Spurgeon Memorial Methodist church.

Dr. Rhodes spent a week in Death Valley recently, taking pictures and studying the peculiarities of that strange part of California. On account of the many inquiries which he has received concerning the trip since his return, he will endeavor in his talk Thursday evening to answer as many questions as possible.

The lecture will be open to the general public, free of charge.

FOR SKIN IRRITATIONS

er-laden hillsides, formed a perfect setting for the luncheon given at the Woman's clubhouse in Laguna Beach on Saturday, by Mrs. A. B. Marshall, district chairman of art appreciation for the Fourth District, Congress of Parents and Teachers.

The luncheon was the closing one of a series held throughout the year, and was largely attended by chairmen from the local associations in the county, prominent residents of Laguna, and invited guests from other cities who came to learn of the splendid work accomplished in the art appreciation department under Mrs. Marshall.

About 10 years ago, the Laguna Art Colony began sending out traveling exhibits of their work, to various communities, and about eight years ago the movement was broadened to include the schools. All the expense was borne by the artists themselves and the results were not always commensurate with the labor required. The movement lapsed because of a lack of interest on the part of the public in general, and not until two years ago was it revived. At that time Mrs. Marian Munson Forrest suggested that the Parent-Teacher associations could incorporate this work into that of the department of art appreciation, and under the leadership of Mrs. Marshall, the movement has become highly successful. On the payment of a small sum covering framing and insurance, an exhibit of twenty or more pictures is hung for two weeks in each school. Art teachers use the pictures as a basis of their lectures on art appreciation, and the exhibit closes with a special parent-teacher meeting which affords the community an opportunity to view the exhibit understandingly.

The luncheon given on Saturday was attended by about 75 persons. Many of the Laguna artists were present and gave short talks full of inspiration and cordial friendliness. Letters were read from prominent educators of Orange county, endorsing the exhibits very highly and promising to include the fees for the exhibits in their budget for the coming year. This highly significant action on the part of school principals places the stamp of approval on the work as an integral factor in the school curriculum. It also means that the parent-teacher associations may now be released from financing the exhibits in most instances, and devote their energies to other phases of the same movement which have been temporarily set aside. It is believed that eventually the movement will be recognized by the state department of education as a result of the interest shown Saturday when Los Angeles, Long Beach, Pasadena, and San Diego sent representatives to the luncheon to confer with Mrs. Marshall on details of the plan. Local parent-teacher heads will also take the plan to the state convention of the California Congress of Parents and Teachers in May, and are confident of securing the endorsement of the state organization.

WILL DECIDE SCENE OF RECORD FLIGHT

Whether the Albatross, Midway City aspirant to fame as the holder of the world's airplane endurance record, will hop from the Orange county airport on its next attempt to shatter the mark, probably will be decided tomorrow.

The board of supervisors, after conferring Friday with Sterling Price, manager of the Zenith Aircraft company, builders of the ship, and with chamber of commerce officials from several Orange county cities, will take up the question again tomorrow and are expected to reach a decision as to whether it will be possible for the huge plane to start from the local field. Preliminary discussion last Friday revealed the problem to be settled before the flight can be assured for this section, and paved the way for final action, which is looked for tomorrow.

HOME ENTERED BY THIEF AND JEWELS TAKEN

A burglar who broke into the home of Beatrice Wolf, 637 North Van Ness street, at 7 o'clock Saturday night, while members of the family were in the next room eating dinner, stole a lavallier, a woman's gold watch, $6 in cash, a check for $1, and a Pacific Electric railway ticket to Los Angeles, according to a report made to the city police.

A partial description of the man was given officers by members of the family who frightened him away.

Entrance into the home was made after a screen window had been unhooked in one of the back bedrooms, it was reported.

Burglars broke into the Smoke House, 314 North Main street, some time last night, but apparently were frightened away before stealing anything of value, according to a report made to the police today.

A small back window was forced with a screwdriver and a chisel, the implements being found in the store when it was opened for business today.

EDDIE LANE BUYS PARSON FOUNTAIN

Eddie Lane, well known Santa Ana fountain and lunch man, has purchased the lease for the soda fountain and lunches in the Parson's Drug store, Fourth and Broadway and will take charge of it immediately, he announced today.

The lease was purchased from H. S. Logan, who has operated the soda fountain since Parsons opened the new drug store several months ago.

Lane is holding his opening tomorrow at which time he is offering a special roast chicken dinner, he said.

As head of the fountain at the White Cross drug store, Fourth and Sycamore streets, for three and a half years, Lane made a host of friends who will wish him success in his new enterprise.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Oil Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative mixed with olive oil.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night to keep right. Try them, 15c, 50c, 60c.—Adv.

assistants in the office of City Engineer Clyde Jenken; Mrs. Roger Dunning and others.

Three local firms contributed to the dinner, Smart and Final presenting with their compliments the coffee, beans and sugar, the Kilpatrick Bakery company, the bread, and the Excelsior Creamery company, the butter, cream and ice cream.

Mayor Frank Purinton and Councilman W. G. Knox were among the councilmen who "showed" at the park. Charles Chapman, former councilman, and Nat Neff, superintendent of county highways and former councilman and city engineer, also were in the group. All were accompanied by their families. The movement for acquisition of the camp site was initiated during Neff's administration of the office of city engineer.

Indication of the progress the city is making in placing the park in condition for use this summer is contained in the announcement today that water has been piped to the tract from Elder creek, the pipe line being approximately 3000 feet, and through this line will flow the purest of mountain water for consumption by residents of Santa Ana who may avail themselves of the camp this summer. The water has been piped to various locations on the 11-acre site. Rest rooms have been erected and one big fireplace has been built for use of groups who may go up just for a day's outing.

Sites are now available for 30 camps and plans of the city contemplate the erection of three or four fireplaces in the area in which the sites are located. Campers may use their own stoves, if they prefer.

Ranger Moore yesterday conferred with Jenken and Knox and advised that some of the fire hazards in the camp would have to be eliminated by June 1. Dry grass in the area that has been prepared for camps will have to be burned or cleared away, and it was suggested that a fire break be made around the entire tract, as a protection against fire that may break out in some other portion of the mountains nearby and sweep down on the city grounds.

While no definite plan has been worked out, it is probable that persons wishing to use the grounds may have to apply to the city manager for a permit. The site is exclusively for Santa Ana residents. Whether the city will extend the recommendations provided may be determined this summer. If it is not used by a large number of local residents the council may decide to surrender its lease from the government.

HORSE KILLED BUT BOY RIDER UNHURT

Donald Skidmore, 12, son of Joe Skidmore, of Laguna Beach, had a miraculous escape from death late Saturday, when the horse he was riding was struck by an automobile and killed.

The accident happened as the boy was returning home from San Juan Capistrano, where he attends school. The driver of the car admitted that he was intoxicated and promised to pay the damages, according to the boy's father.

The lad was not scratched, being thrown into a patch of weeds by the side of the road.

Henry Johnson, charged with vagrancy, was given a 30 day suspended jail sentence when he appeared in police court Saturday.

NINE NEWPORT SCOUTS TO GET BADGES FRIDAY

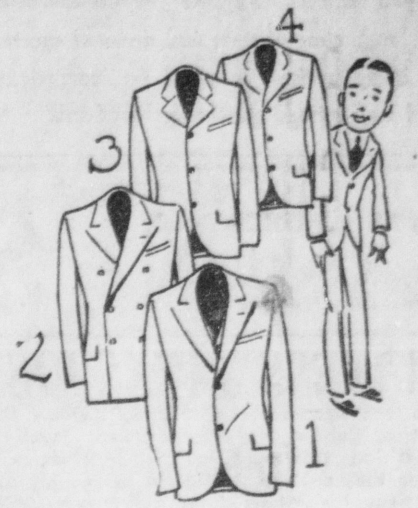

NEWPORT BEACH, April 23.—Nine local Boy Scouts will be honored at the county jamboree to be held at the Orange county fair grounds next Friday afternoon and evening. It was announced here today. Three local boys will be given eagle palms. They are Darrell Sabin, Wilford MacDonald and Albert Spencer. Harry Robinson and Carl Curtis will receive eagle awards. Jack Summers will be presented with a life badge, while Frank Bailey, Melvin Ross and Harold Wells will be presented with star badges.

The Newport Beach Boy Scout troop is one of the most active in Orange county, according to A. J. Twist, scoutmaster. Local Scouts were awarded a number of merit badges at a meeting held at the Scout cabin Friday night. Melvin Ross was high man, receiving nine merit badges. Other awards were as follows: Harold Wells, seven badges; Jack Summers, four badges; Donald Stafford, three badges; Billy Brown, two badges; Royal Wellington, two badges; Carl Curtis, two badges; Duane Larabee, James Susandroff and James Craig, one badge each. Donald Stafford was presented with his first class Scout badge.

SEVEN SAINTS QUALIFY FOR ALL-SOUTHERN

HARNESS SAVES HIS ARM

When a torn ligament over his right elbow threatened to keep Emory Curtice, California's most efficient javelin thrower, out of track competition this season, Trainer Charley Volz devised a harness brace that enables Curtice to extend his arm backward and forward without the elbow joint giving way. Now, Curtice can throw the javelin as well as he ever did because the leather takes the place of the torn ligament. Curtice's harness brace can be seen very plainly in this photograph.

CROMWELL THINKS BORAH MAY ESTABLISH NEW RECORDS IN THREE RACES—100, 220, 440

By BOB MATHERNE
NEA Service Sports Writer

One of these days the wires may click the news that Charles Borah, Southern California's sensational sprinter, has established new world records for the 100, 220 and 440 events. That is, assuming Dean Cromwell really "knows" his man Charley. Cromwell believes Borah will be possessor of the world marks in these three events before he finishes running as a Trojan.

While a coach may be pardoned for being over-enthusiastic about a man he has developed, Cromwell mixes modesty with conviction.

Of course, Borah has demonstrated time and again that he can run the 100 just about as fast as any man in the field today and he has shown equally as many times that he can move down the track for 220 yards faster than any other man. But why say he'll make a new 440 record?

One Effort Started Timers
Borah has run but one quarter-mile race in his life. That one effort started those holding the stopwatch on him.

"It takes a good sprinter to run the 440," explains Cromwell, "and that's why I say that. One of these days when we don't need Charley" points in the 100 and 220 we are going to send him after the 440 record. Don't be surprised if he makes one."

Last year, after Charley had been begging for a chance in the 440 all the year, Cromwell gave him permission to take the last lap in the mile relay in the Pacific Coast Intercollegiate.

At Fag End of Season
It was at the fag end of the season and Borah had just returned to the Pacific Coast after having run three hundreds and three furlongs at Philadelphia. On top of that, he was in heats and finals in the preliminaries in the 100 and 220 before he ran his 440 race.

Borah had been running sprint relays all year, so he started too quickly for the faltering third Trojan runner. Seeing that he was in danger of over-running the 100 yard space allotted, he stopped and took two steps back, received the baton and was off.

He pulled up at the finish 100 yards in the lead. Coach Cromwell's watch read 47 4-5 seconds. The watch of Joe Pinal, Occidental coach, read 47 2-5 seconds. Eighteen watches had been on him—and the greatest time recorded was 48 seconds.

Official Record Is 47 2-5
Ted Meredith's official world's record is 47 2-5 seconds. He made this time around only one curve. Borah traveled around two curves. "Borah can beat his first 220 of a quarter mile in 22 seconds," says Cromwell, "and nothing short of an accident could prevent him from taking the last furlong in 25 seconds. That would mean a total time of 47 seconds."

Perhaps Cromwell is correct. Borah has been clocked in 9.5 seconds in the century and has hung up the time of 20.9 seconds in the furlong. Both may fall this summer, says Cromwell.

Has Never Cut Loose in 220
"You see, I expect to see the kid get mad one of these days and break the tape in 9 2-5 seconds," he tells you. "Not once in his life has he ever cut loose in the 220."

Republic Supplies Defeat Countians

HERB SALVESON PITCHING STAR OF FIRST GAME

Drawing first blood in the two-out-of-three "grudge" series to determine the semi-pro baseball championship of Orange county, Joe Rodgers' Republic Supply company club of Huntington Beach beat Art Sullivan's Orange Countians, 6 to 3, at the Orange County Fair grounds yesterday. The same teams play again on next Sunday.

Only a fair-sized crowd witnessed the affair which was decided in the third inning when the Supplies went on a run-making rampage, scoring four times.

Herb Salveson, veteran runner of the Huntington Beach constellations, was in superb form after his rest of nearly a month. The Countians bunched two hits and two errors to push in a pair of tallies in the first but he allowed only one other bingle during the remainder of his seven-inning jog on the rubber. George Lackey finished up the assignment in creditable fashion. A circus catch by L. Daley, with two on and two out in the ninth, assisted Lackey out of his only embarrassing situation.

Rodgers' men made four of their six runs in the third. Rodgers, ss, led off with walks, Ihrig sacrificed and Norek singled to score both runners. Norek stole second and Callahan singled and Norek and Callahan both raced home with "Buster" Callan tripped in the fifth when Norek walked and came around on Callan's double and completed their day's harvest in the first of the ninth when Rodgers singled, went to second on an out and scored on Ihrig's single.

WARNER TAKES MEDAL PLAY AT COUNTRY CLUB

Medal play that lured 15 of the Santa Ana Country club's finest on to the links Saturday afternoon was won by J. S. Warner who came with a gross 82, less 10, for a net 72. This was one stroke better than Ed Holmes and J. S. (SI) Fluor pr., who were both home in net 73's. Holmes shot the best gross score of the day, 79, while Fluor turned in an 85.

J. K. McDonald and H. B. Van Dien trailed Holmes and Fluor, McDonald having 84-9-75 and Van Dien 87-12-75.

W. D. Young finished first in the Class B department. He shot 88-18-70 which placed him two in front of L. C. Denslow, second with 90-18-72, and six to the good of H. T. Richards who turned in 92-16-75.

J. J. Harrison and E. B. Collier tied for fourth with net 77's.

C. H. Way was best of the Sunday medal players with 89-10-79, three better than S. R. Bowen with 106-24-82.

In match play against par yesterday, R. G. Cartwright topped all of the Class A contestants with his five down. B. V. Curry and E. E. Wilson tied for second. They were both six down. S. R. Bowen led the Class B field with his three down. Vic Baird, A. W. Griffith, B. J. MacMullen and H. H. Williamson tied for second.

BRADLEYS MEAN BUSINESS
Even after their lesson with Ruppert and Wrigley and Rickey, the big-hearted magnates did not learn. Last winter the franchise and property of the Cleveland ball club was transferred to the multi-millionaire Bradley brothers and some associates. Regardless of the fact that the new owners of the Indians represented some of the biggest business brains in the whole country, the big-hearted magnates looked upon them as big dough men ready to be plucked in a new business. They tried to make suckers of them.

The magnates chortled with glee when they thought they had slipped a couple of fast ones over on Billy Evans, the new business manager of the club, during the winter meetings, but the Indians had the last laugh. They closed up the dough bag and went about the process of improving the ball club along lines of big business.

The Bradleys had the theory that if they couldn't buy a ready-made ball club or purchase improvements they would have to build. They warned their customers that no pennant was ready for immediate delivery, but that in a couple of years they would have a ball club.

LOCAL RUNNERS STAR IN MEET AT RIVERSIDE

Santa Ana junior college athletes gave a creditable account of themselves in the meet Saturday at Riverside between the combined Southern California junior colleges and the Los Angeles Athletic club in which the strength of the clubmen in the field events overpowered the college boys and won for them the meet.

Despite the fact that "Red Guyer, the Don sprint act, was set back for "jumping" in the 100 yard dash, he was the first to the tape, besting, among others, Murray Schultz, the former Caltech captain. Guyer's time was 10 seconds, flat.

In the century, Guyer also outran his old rival, Williams, of Compton. The decision over the Tartar flash establishes the Santa Ana redhead as the better runner for it is the second time that he has led Williams to the worsted. Williams came in second Saturday and Russell Hind, Santa Ana, was fourth, close on the heels of Schultz.

The junior college sprint kings, including Guyer and Hind, of Santa Ana, and two others, "framed" the 220 so that they came in at the finish in a dead heat.

Blanchard Beaty ran a pretty hurdle race and threw the javelin for a creditable distance but he did not place.

Spencer Stewart, the Santa Ana spearman, was the only junior college athlete to qualify for the finals of the javelin event but he was in too fast company to grab any points. Neither Roscoe Bradbury, field man, nor Robert Jacques, high jumper, were able to place in their events. "Pete" Twist, however, placed fourth in the low hurdles.

Two of the Santa Ana runners were on the junior college relay team that won. Hind ran the first 220 lap and Guyer was anchorman. Guyer was racing against Schultz in the last stretch and he doubled the five yards distance between them at the finish.

PAYNE STILL AHEAD IN 'BUNION DERBY'

CONWAY, Mo., April 23.—Andrew Payne, Claremore, Okla., held his narrow 36-minute lead over Peter Gavuzzi, of Southampton, England, today as the Pyle cross country runners left here for Waynesville, Mo., 50 miles away.

Payne and Gavuzzi finished in a dead heat for sixth place yesterday in the 43.1 mile run from Springfield. Giusto Umek, Trieste, Italy, won the law in 5:12:8.

BROKEN LEG STOPS MOOSE

While trotting across the ice on the Kennebecasis river, in New Brunswick, Canada, this big cow moose fell and broke a leg. The crippled animal was fed and cared for until permission could be obtained from the provincial government to shoot the creature. Then the whole neighborhood dined on moose meat.

PITCHING OF ALEXANDER AND NEHF DISPROVES ADAGE THAT YOUNGSTERS WILL BE SERVED

By BILLY EVANS

That old adage—"youth will be served"—is being buffeted around considerably this spring in major league baseball circles.

In this day of the lively ball and slam-bang tactics, a shut-out is the unusual among the 16 major league clubs. As a matter of fact, the New York Yankees were blanked only once during the entire season of 1927. That will give you some idea of what a difficult matter it is for a team to hold the opposition rudderless for nine innings.

Despite the adage that youth will be served and that whitewashing the opposition is a most difficult matter, two veteran pitchers in their initial start of the 1928 campaign turned in shutouts.

Although veteran pitchers—any hurler over 30 years of age is so regarded—are supposed to need plenty of hot weather to be at their best, the two feature pitching performances of the first week of play had old time stars pulling the hero stuff.

Alexander is 41 Now
Grover Cleveland Alexander, 41 years of age and in his 18th year of major league baseball, stopped right out and scored a shutout in his first start. Even more important, Alexander didn't pick any soft spot for his stellar performance. In whitewashing the opposition, he used the kalsomine brush on the pennant-winning Pirates of 1927, one of the hardest hitting clubs in baseball.

Then, just to keep Alexander from hogging the spotlight, Artie Nehf, 37 years of age, blanked Cincinnati in his opening game by the tight score of 2-0, being forced to bear down through the entire game.

The fact that Cincinnati once gave Nehf a trial after John McGraw of the New York Giants figured him through, only to have the Reds turn him loose, must have made the victory all the sweeter. Nothing pleases a ball player more than to beat the club that gave him the gate. This is particularly true of a pitcher, and, of course, a shutout victory made the conquest all the more satisfying to Nehf.

The two unexpected shutouts scored by the 14-year-old Alexander and the 37-year-old Nehf are a real tribute to pitching art. There are few hurlers in baseball who give more thought to their work than Alexander and Nehf. It is more than a mere throwing contest when they ascend the mound. Back of every ball pitched is a desire on the part of the two to outguess the batter.

The Alexander and Nehf of today are mere shadows of the two stars of 10 years back. There are a score of right and left handers in the two major leagues who have twice the stuff of either of the veterans, but few have their infinite cunning.

The remarkable performances of these two old timers in their first start of the 1928 season is the best possible proof that could be offered to show how much there is to pitching aside from the mere mechanical angle.

Use of the old "gray matter" has, temporarily at least, placed in the baseball background the theory that youth will be served.

S. A. LOOMS AS THREAT IN BIG MEET SATURDAY

Santa Ana high school today loomed as a "dark horse" that might do the unexpected and capture the interscholastic track and field championship of Southern California following the series of preliminaries at the Los Angeles Coliseum Saturday in which seven of Coach "Tex" Oliver's disciples qualified for the finals next Saturday.

Showing unexpected strength in everything, particularly the hurdles, the Saints placed seven of their eight entrants and the marks of their athletes indicate that they have an outside chance to win the big meet if their competitors "come through" 100 per cent. At the worst, Santa Ana should be among the first four.

Los Angeles high school, favorite to win, qualified the most men, 11. Long Beach was second with 10 and Santa Ana and Los Angeles Poly third with seven. Glendale, which is expected to battle it out with Los Angeles for the title, placed only five but they are all men capable of taking points.

Santa Ana scored as follows:

Captain John Moffat won his heat of the 120 yard high hurdles and also his heat of the semi-finals. His best time was 15 4-5 seconds, the best he has made this year.

Alvin Reboin won the first heat of the high hurdles in 15 4-5 seconds and was a close second in his heat of the semi-finals which went to Berry, Fairfax, in 15 4-5.

Ernie Velarde led all of the broad jumpers with a leap of 22 feet, 2 inches and easily qualified in the 220 yard low hurdles, winning one heat in 25 3-5 seconds and placing third in his semi-final heat.

Moffat and Reboin were also qualified in the low hurdles. Arthur Jacques easily cleared 5 feet, 7 inches to qualify in the high jump.

"Reg" Rust got in the finals in both the shot put and the discus throw, showing form which indicated that he may pick up a valuable point or two in the finals Saturday.

Tommy Cone made the finals of the 880 yard run which was won in 2 minutes, 2.6 seconds.

Joe Warner made the finals of the 440 by taking third in his heat which was won by Rogers, of Hollywood, in 51.4 seconds.

Aside from the remarkable from hogging the spotlight, Artie Nehf, 37 years of age, blanked Cincinnati in his opening game by the tight score of 2-0, being forced to bear down through the entire game.

The fact that Cincinnati once gave Nehf a trial after John McGraw of the New York Giants figured him through, only to have the Reds turn him loose, must have made the victory all the sweeter.

Nothing pleases a ball player more than to beat the club that gave him the gate. This is particularly true of a pitcher, and, of course, a shutout victory made the conquest all the more satisfying to Nehf.

The two unexpected shutouts scored by the 14-year-old Alexander and the 37-year-old Nehf are a real tribute to pitching art. There are few hurlers in baseball who give more thought to their work than Alexander and Nehf. It is more than a mere throwing contest when they ascend the mound. Back of every ball pitched is a desire on the part of the two to outguess the batter.

The Alexander and Nehf of today are mere shadows of the two stars of 10 years back. There are a score of right and left handers in the two major leagues who have twice the stuff of either of the veterans, but few have their infinite cunning.

The remarkable performances of these two old timers in their first start of the 1928 season is the best possible proof that could be offered to show how much there is to pitching aside from the mere mechanical angle.

Use of the old "gray matter" has, temporarily at least, placed in the baseball background the theory that youth will be served.

BY FRANK GETTY
UNITED PRESS SPORTS EDITOR

This is Olympic Week, when an attempt is to be made to raise the balance of $400,000 required to send Uncle Sam's athletic nephews and nieces to Amsterdam next summer.

General Douglas MacArthur, president of the American Olympic committee, expects his collectors to go over the top this week and shake down a slightly reluctant nation for the necessary funds.

There is no reason why the sum of $400,000 should be difficult to raise, but money comes forth slowly at this time of year. Next July, when interest in the 9th Olympiad is at fever heat and Americans await eagerly the progress of the wearers of the Stars and Stripes at Amsterdam, you could raise a million and never hear a squawk from the contributors.

Those interested in sending a strong team to the Olympics this year must contribute this week, however. Next July, it will be too late.

A number of other nations have had their troubles in raising the funds necessary to provide representation at the 9th Olympiad. France and Great Britain nearly despaired of sending teams, so slowly did the funds appear. In France, the necessary francs were voted by the Chamber of Deputies; in England, as in the United States, the Olympic fund is raised by what is known as "popular subscription."

It doesn't cost as much to send an English team to Amsterdam, nor a French team, as it does one from the United States. The American Olympic committee had to charter a steamship for the voyage over, the duration of the games and the return trip.

Wait until 1932, and undoubtedly we will find France and Great Britain even more reluctant to put up the money to send athletes on the long journey to Los Angeles. This really is a serious matter to which it might be well for those who will have a charge of the 1932 games to give some attention when they get to Amsterdam.

It is all very well for Los Angeles to wish to stage the 10th Olympiad, but the expense involved is certain to hamper the representation of many nations which took part in the revival of the games in 1896 and in subsequent Olympiads.

The chief concern of the American public, for the moment, however, is to dig down and give up. The collectors will take cash, checks, pledges or buttons. The main thing is to be able to announce about bath-time next Saturday that the $400,000 is safely promised.

Dan Ferris, new secretary of the Amateur Athletic Union, tells me he has little doubt that the fund will be raised within the week. There will be some pre-Olympic activity to help stir up interest in the games, in addition to speeches and mass meetings.

The final boxing tryouts are to be held in Boston this week, and on Friday and Saturday coming the Penn Relays. The latter carnival contains one official Olympic tryout on its program—the decathlon. The first five men in this event will be named for the American team, although their number may be reduced to three later on.

GARDEN BOOKS BEFORE COURT IN FIGHT SUIT

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, April 23.—Books of the Madison Square Garden corporation, balanced by successful deals in callflowers and showing profits of more than $1,000,000 a year, were to be examined in federal court here today at the resumption of Jack Kearns' legal efforts to obtain about $700,000 from his former pal and protegee, Jack Dempsey.

Counsel for the plaintiff in the trial of Kearns' suit against the former heavyweight champion demanded the books as part of their plan to show payments by Tex Rickard to Dempsey for his fights with Gene Tunney and Jack Sharkey. Kearns contends he is entitled to a share of such payments.

Dempsey continues confident that his former manager is not entitled legally to anything of the sort.

Tex Rickard, who was subpoenaed as a witness by the plaintiff, is all for the defense. "Kearns hasn't a chance of collecting," the promoter declared. "Dempsey fought Tunney for me and Sharkey, too—some time after this contract Kearns talks so much about expired. Even if the contract were any good, it wouldn't apply to Dempsey's fights, after its expiration."

"Before they get through," Tex predicted, "they'll find that Kearns owes Dempsey money."

Because they are hard nitters and reckless riders, Devereaux, Kilburn and Tommy Hitchcock are the idols of polo fans.

There are only seven girls in the high school at Vida, Oregon, and when a basketball team was organized they all had to join. They won every game they played, scored 500 points to their opponents' 142 and won the cup for their district championship. Motola Allen, kneeling at the left, was the star of the team, scoring 232 points.

ling of Moffat, Reboin and Velarde, all of whom were running in their best form of the year, the gritty race of little Tom Cone in the half was the outstanding achievement of the Saint troupe.

Cone looked to be outdistanced at the end of the first lap but he finished with a whale of a sprint which carried him from far behind up within a few feet of the badly worn winner, Lethin, of Belmont. Cone was timed in 2:03 and he looked capable of better than a full second. The Saint had hardly expected Cone to place in the finals but his brilliant finish was such that it now looks that he will get a point or two, maybe more.

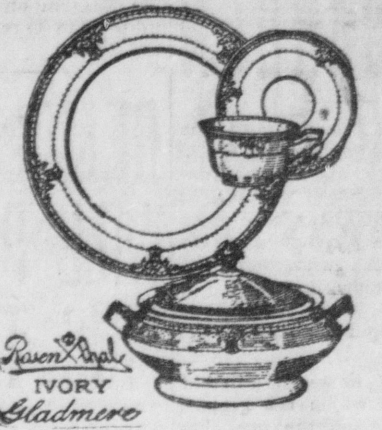

There will be no qualifications for the javelin throw in which Santa Ana has a star entrant, Melvin Beatty, who may get off one of his long throws and give the school the points it will need to win the meet.

SANTA ANA

ROSE SOCIETY OF SANTA ANA VISITS GARDEN

More than 50 members of the American Rose Society of Santa Ana and vicinity visited the rose garden of Capt. George Thomas, at Beverly Hills, Saturday afternoon, in the first rose pilgrimage of the local chapter. All who made the trip were fascinated with the beauty of the garden and the charm of the personality of the host.

Capt. Thomas' home is situated on a crest from which the ground slopes two ways, on the one side rather abruptly. The property has a frontage of 2000 feet with a depth of perhaps 3000 feet. The home grounds proper are laid out with beautiful trees and shrubs and occupy about one-third the area. The entire frontage along Crescent Drive has a 4-foot retaining wall behind which the gardens, at the side of the house, begin.

Over the crest of the hill are beds of favorite, well known display roses and some of the captain's own production. The rear slope of the hill is laid out in several terraces 8 feet wide by 200 feet long, supported by concrete retaining walls. On each terrace the roses are planted in two rows with a flag stone path between. Here also are found many proven varieties.

Here and there throughout the garden are located artistic trellises and racks on which climbers and pillars are trained.

At the foot of the hill is a trial garden in which are several hundred foreign roses being tested out in Southern California climate. There are also many of Capt. Thomas' own seedlings from which he expects to develop new species adapted to this region. In a well equipped green house many experiments are being carried on.

J. Horace McFarland, editor of the American Rose Annual for 1928, says: "Captain Thomas has probably tested more roses than any other man in America, in addition to his own good work in hybridization. He is responsible for the superb dark red pillar rose, Dr. Huey, also Bloomfield Progress, Bloomfield Abundance, and others, of a unique series tending toward the much-desired constant-blooming hardy climber. His latest book, 'Roses for All American Climates' is a most important contribution toward the intelligent selection of rose varieties for each of the defined climate zones it describes."

Capt. Thomas is especially interested in developing a standard list of roses adapted to California conditions from which the amateur can select plants for his garden with greater assurance of success.

Another rose pilgrimage will be planned by the chapter for some time during the present spring blooming season.

On the evening of May 20, Dr. E. M. Mills, president emeritus of the American Rose society, will have charge of a special "Rose Service" at the First Methodist church. Members of the society in Santa Ana and vicinity are urged to save the date.

PLACENTIA, April 23. — One hundred and ten children of the Bradford school journeyed to San Gabriel yesterday and witnessed the Mission play. They were taken in private cars by the patrons of the school.

DEMOLAY BOYS WILL PRESENT PINS THURSDAY

Two of the past master counselors of the Santa Ana chapter, order of De Molay will be presented with pins in recognition of their service to the organization at a dinner to be held at the Rose Arbor Thursday night at 7 o'clock, according to plans announced at the meeting held this week at the Masonic temple.

Jack Taylor and Charles Searls will be the honored guests of the order for the special occasion.

Charles Wright, deputy for the Grand Council in Southern California, is to be present. A program and entertainment is being arranged by Chester Page, scribe.

The date for the De Molay dinner dance to be held at the Newport Harbor Yacht club was announced for May 25. Weston Jay, senior deacon, is making the arrangements.

Reports of the delegates that attended the state convention of De Molay representatives at Oakland last week-end were heard. Five members of the Santa Ana chapter went on the trip. Robert Perrin, master counselor; Jack Taylor, senior counselor; Chester Page, scribe; Paul Beckman and Don Smith made the trip.

Seventy-five chapters sent delegates to the convention. The convention voted to use the new ritual for the second degree after both the old and the new form had been presented by the East Bay chapter of Oakland. Next year's convention was voted to Fresno.

Varicose Veins Reduced Or Money Back

Simple Home Treatment That Is Giving Amazing Results

If you have varicose veins, or hunches you can start today to bring them back to normal size, and if you are wise you will do so.

Just get an original bottle of Moore's Emerald Oil at any dispensing pharmacist and apply it night and morning to the enlarged veins. It is very powerful and penetrating. After a few days' treatment the veins will begin to grow smaller and by regular use will soon reduce to normal.

People who want to reduce varicose veins, or get rid of eczema, ulcers, or piles in a few days should not hesitate to get a bottle at once. It is such a powerful, penetrating antiseptic oil that a small bottle lasts a long time. Any pharmacy can supply you. Santa Ana Drug Co. and C. S. Kelley sell lots of it. —Adv.

Easy HOUSEKEEPING

By MRS. MEG MACGREGOR, Director of Household Science

Washing made easy

—Clothes sterilized too

I am sure many a woman will smile as she reads my headline. And it does seem a pretty big claim. But I made my own washing much easier just by adding Clorox. Now my laundry not only gets done more quickly, but it has a professional whiteness of which I am immensely proud.

Clorox is white magic in a bottle! A magic that makes boiling or soaking unnecessary; a magic that disinfects and deodorizes too, just by being present in the water!

For washing machine or tubs

Don't imagine that if you use Clorox you must change your own careful washing ways, or give up your pet soap. Wash in either a machine or tub and add Clorox—a tablespoonful to a gallon of water—to the first rinse. Your clothes will hang out on the line the whitest in the neighborhood.

Removing stains

Nearly every hamper of soiled clothes holds a piece or two so badly stained you dread tackling them. But if the fabric is white cotton or linen you need not worry. Every kind of a stain from tea to dyes—including mildew and scorched spots—will disappear under the renewing powers of Clorox.

It's good for your hands

Many women tell me that they are afraid that Clorox will hurt their hands. On the contrary it disinfects cuts; removes dye, fruit and vegetable stains; whitens the skin and softens callouses. To dispel any remaining odor just wash your hands in hot water and soap, and dust with talcum.

Your special needs

Perhaps I have not touched on your special needs and I do so want to help you. So write to me. I shall be glad to answer your letters.

BIG JAMBOREE OF SCOUTS TO BE ON FRIDAY

A "kangaroo court," operated by members of the Santa Ana junior chamber of commerce, with the conclusion of county traffic cops and other officers, is expected to be an outstanding feature of the gladway at the 40 and 8 Boy Scout jamboree Friday at the fairgrounds.

The dinner preceding the scout program will be held in the pavilion on the grounds, it was announced today by Mrs. Rowena Fultz, president of the Legion Auxiliary, sponsors of this part of the jamboree arrangements. Profits from this dinner, which will be attended by high officials of the Legion and the "40 and 8," will go as a donation to the jamboree committee, it was said.

The Santa Ana Rotarians will be peddling ice cream, and the Kiwanians will be dishing out peanuts, according to present plans, while the Calumet Camp auxiliary will hold a cake auction. Side-shows by the Santa Ana Legion and the Spanish War Veterans and a cash donation to the affair from the Santa Ana Elks, with other organizations yet to be heard from, assure full co-operation from this section, in the opinion of Carl Edgar, local scout leader, and member of the state boy scout commission of the American Legion.

Tight-rope walkers, baby shows, games of skill and numerous side-shows of a more or less secret nature have been signed up from various sections of the county, all in addition to the main attraction of seeing all the Boy Scouts in the county performing in the grandstand enclosure.

No previous jamboree has had so many features, according to Ted Craig, general chairman, who expects more than six thousand people at the fairgrounds next Friday.

Postal Delivery Is Discussed By Placentia Group

PLACENTIA, April 23.—The city postal delivery was discussed at the meeting of the merchants' division of the chamber of commerce, J. V. Bennie presided. Frank White declared that city delivery would keep the office in third class, reduce receipts through loss of box rental, cause the office to lose direct communication with Washington and the salary of a mail carrier and prevent a raise in salaries for present workers.

Moreover, the carrier would only serve a section of the city, because he would not be permitted to go where there are no pavements, he said. Henry R. Honey maintained that the receipts justified the delivery of city mail and that the office might remain second class at the same time. Decision was withheld for 60 days. The street light committee reported.

AIRPLANE WILL DROP BASEBALL PAPERS AT L. B.

LAGUNA BEACH, April 23.—With better service as its aim, The Register today made arrangements with the owners of McKnight's addition to drop the green baseball edition of the paper on the property. The new arrangement will place the baseball papers in Laguna Beach quicker than previously, according to Roscoe Conklin, circulation manager.

McKnight's addition is located on Crescent bay about a half mile west of the city of Laguna Beach proper. The papers will be picked up by a Register representative in an automobile and conveyed over paved roads to town for street sale. The Register is the first paper to give Laguna Beach a complete baseball edition carrying the scores and reports on eastern and Pacific coast baseball games the same day the games are played.

Former La Habra Dies In Oklahoma

LA HABRA, April 23.—Word has been received here of the death of Dewey Delacore, former La Habra youth, near Enid, Okla., while baling hay. The details of his death have not been learned. The body is being shipped to Turlock, the home of his parents, for burial. The body will be accompanied by his widow.

Delacore was the youngest brother of Charles Delacore, La Habra barber, and was well known here, having resided in La Habra for a number of years before leaving for Oklahoma. The local family with other relatives will leave today for Turlock.

CONSERVATION OF WATER IS ORANGE TOPIC

ORANGE, April 23.—Water conservation methods were described by two noted water experts, W. S. Rosecrans of Los Angeles, vice president of the California Farm bureau, and Francis Cuttle of Riverside, chairman of the tri-counties water conservation committee, at the meeting of the Orange County Protective association in the new American Legion hall last week.

Rosecrans explained water conservation methods in Los Angeles county. The majority of people in Los Angeles, he said, have no idea how their water supply is developed.

A background should be created for the conservation of water, he declared, and people educated for the need of the protection of watersheds.

Rosecrans expressed the belief that only through co-operation could legislative measures be secured as an aid in the work.

Francis Cuttle, chairman of the Tri-Counties Water Conservation association, also was a speaker on the program.

Water conservation, he declared, is dependent on fire protection and all life is dependent on water. One person requires, he said, one ton of water a year, 450 tons are required in the raising of a ton of alfalfa and 272 tons for the raising of a box of oranges.

States Forester M. B. Pratt gave a short talk expressing his pleasure that the first formal meeting to be held in the American Legion hall should be devoted to fire protection and water conservation. While in 1919 there were but three state rangers at present there are 40, Pratt declared.

H. A. Coupe, deputy state forester, was present and gave a talk. County Supervisor Willard Smith also addressed the meeting.

John Ragan, president of the association, told something of the aims of the organization. A camp will be established in the mountains within 30 days, he said, for the purpose of practical training in fire fighting.

Films relating to fire fighting were shown by A. M. Stacey, secretary of the Orange County Farm bureau and of the association.

NEWPORT ZONING MAP IS PRESENTED

NEWPORT BEACH, April 23.—The first of a series of hearings on the tentative zoning map of the city of Newport Beach was held at the city hall last week. The map was presented to the city planning commission and the public for the first time at the meeting by Gordon Whitnall, planning expert employed by the city. Whitnall was assisted in the preparation of the map by Rollin McNitt and Dr. Carol Aronovici.

L. W. Briggs, chairman of the city planning commission, called the meeting to order and then turned the session over to Whitnall, who presented the map and then gave a detailed outline of the map. It is the aim of the planning commission to take considerable time in presenting the map to the public and in making sure that the proposals involved meet with the approval of the citizens of the community.

The map sets tentative boundaries for commercial, industrial, business and residential districts, provides for parks and playgrounds, civic buildings and includes numerous recommendations. The recommendations included in the map will not be carried out until the planning commission is satisfied that the citizens of Newport Beach approve all the measures. The commission will then recommend that the city council adopt the map.

Another public hearing and explanation of the map will be held at the Balboa Palisades club in Corona Del Mar Tuesday night.

CEMETERY WORK NEARS COMPLETION

ANAHEIM, April 23.—An ambitious improvement program, begun in the historic Anaheim cemetery slightly more than a year ago, is rapidly nearing completion.

For years public spirited residents of this section, distressed by the growing chaos in the long neglected burial ground of the district's pioneers, have been endeavoring to bring a "clean up" in the Anaheim cemetery.

Less than two years ago a bill was passed by the state legislature, providing for the organization of assessment districts for such purposes and no time was lost in forming such a district here. The school districts of Anaheim, Loara and Katella and portions of the school districts of Orange and Magalia, were joined and a tax levy put through.

5000 PERSONS PRESENT AT DEDICATION OF FULLERTON CITY AIRPORT SATURDAY

FULLERTON, April 23.—With more than 5000 spectators in attendance, the Fullerton municipal airport was dedicated Saturday and became a class "A" field as rated by the government.

With a score of planes flying, above the field and with thousands of people standing around the flag pole, the flag was run up by the Boy Scouts while the Fullerton municipal band played "The Among the planes at the air meet. Among the planes at the air meet were the Western Air Express Fokker, the Maddux-Ford all-metal plane, the Ryan brougham of the Mahoney company field at San Diego, the Fairchild cabin plane from Los Angeles, four army planes with Lieutenants Hornsby, Robinson, Owens and Smith in command, an Eagle Rock plane, and several other individual planes.

Miss Ada Williams, who is to preside at the Orange show in Anaheim, started the affairs of the day by signalling the first plane down the runway.

Stunt flying, wing walking and parachute dropping concluded the affairs of the day.

OFFICERS FOR W. R. C. CHOSEN AT COSTA MESA

COSTA MESA, April 23.—Organization of the Costa Mesa Women's Relief corps, took place Friday night in the W. M. A. hall, Mrs. Gladys McDonald, state organizer being in charge.

Twenty-one were accepted as charter members of the new organization.

Visitors were present from Laguna Beach, La Habra, Santa Ana, Orange and Fullerton.

Election of officers was held and the following were installed by Mrs. McDonald: President, Pearl Brown; senior vice president, Dolores Morrison; junior vice president, Margaret Long; treasurer, Mary Bennett; chaplain, Etta Tied; conductor, Alice King; Guard, Isa Clark; assistant guard, Phoebe Mortimer; assistant conductor, Gladys Adams; patriotic inspector, Roxie Bennett; secretary, Cora Kito; first color bearer, Mildred Northern; second color bearer, Mary Lighter; third color bearer, Vera Braddy; fourth color bearer, Edith Hammett.

The new corps will be called the J. W. Stiffler W. R. C. in honor of a Civil war veteran.

After installation, refreshments were served.

NEWPORT BEACH, April 23.—B. Code Morgan, former motion picture cameraman with the Mack Sennett company, and at one time a vaudeville actor and composer, will open a photo studio in the May building. Morgan was attracted to the Newport harbor area through the rapid growth of the district, he said today.

Texas Oil Well Passes Depth Of Olinda Project

OLINDA, April 23.—Orange county today lost the distinction of having the world's deepest oil field hole. The depth record, set some time ago by the Chancellor-Canfield Midway company in its Olinda No. 96 has been broken by the Texon Oil and Land company of Big Lake, Texas.

The Olinda No. 96 is 8048 feet in depth. The Texon company has reached a depth of 8058 feet in its well and is still drilling, according to reports. The company intends to drill to a depth of 10,000 feet, it is reported. No information has been given out regarding the formation encountered in the well.

The Olinda well was abandoned several months ago.

$40,000 PAID FOR COUNTY'S SPINACH CROP

FULLERTON, April 23.—More than $40,000 was paid to spinach growers of Orange county during the season just closed by the Culler-Lobinger cannery of Fullerton. It was disclosed today by H. L. Dalbey, manager. More than 2000 tons, which filled 2,000,000 cans, were handled by the cannery, Dalbey stated.

Two shifts were operated during the season, which started early in February, and more than 300 women and men were given employment, with an average weekly payroll of $5000.

The cannery equipment is being changed to handle the string bean

HOLD HEARING ON BUS ROUTE PLAN MAY 17

NEWPORT BEACH, April 23.—The proposal of the Pickwick Stage lines to establish a route along the coast of Orange county, connecting Long Beach and San Diego, together with objections to the proposal will be aired at a public hearing at the city hall May 17. The hearing will be held before a state railroad commission examiner.

Objections will be made by Norman Robotham, owner of the Pacific Coast Motor Coach company, it was reported here today. Robotham operates a stage line at present from Newport Beach, where he connects with the Pacific Electric cars, to San Juan Capistrano, where his cars make connections with the Santa Fe railroad.

There is no bus service between Huntington Beach and Newport Beach at present. Officials of the Pickwick company have been urged to establish a scenic coast line route by the chambers of commerce of all the coast towns along the coast of Orange county. It is believed that many more tourists will be brought to the Southern California coast line by the new routing.

If permission is granted the Pickwick company to operate it is expected that its franchise will be limited so that cars cannot carry passengers from Newport Beach to any point served by the Pacific Coast Stage lines. The hearing at the city hall here has been set for 10:30 a. m.

crop, which will start early in June. Following the bean crop the tomato season will begin. Both bean and tomato crops are expected to be large, Dalbey stated.

ELEANOR YOUNG ELLIOTT

The
DAY
by ALLENE SUMNER

A woman riding through the desert with her husband, a state penitentiary agent, and criminals whom they were taking to prison, jumped from the machine in which she was riding when she saw the four convicts in her husband's car overpower him and take his gun. She sprained her ankle as she jumped, but fired, wounded one or two, got the gun from the others and helped her husband handcuff them.

NO THRILLS LEFT?

All this right in America—in Del Rio, Texas, to be exact. And they say that the adventurous thrills of Kit Carson or Diamond Dick days are gone forever! Some say, too, that women have none of the intestinal qualities of their maternal forebears who braved wild beasts and savages in the wilderness. Maybe there are more like Mrs. R. S. Cloud than we know!

The law's noose has a habit of roping in many unconventional lovers caught together in crime of one sort or another. Almost invariably the unconventional love cools more quickly than soup in a zero night, as first one "lover" and then the other "sweaters" that "I am innocent—(he or she) made me do it."

Which is why the Doris and George McDonald case is rather an appealing contrast. Doris McDonald is Mrs. McDonald only by virtue of the American common law. In fact, learning that McDonald has a real wife, one doubts that even the common law life version can apply to her. But, far from attempting to throw the guilt for the murder of the taxicab driver Bouchard upon one another, each insisted on taking the guilt alone. Its very unusualness proves the little truth in the old adage about "honor among thieves."

GRANDMA'S DRESS

The average 14-year-old girl of today would have great difficulty wearing her grandmother's wedding dress, according to a pageant director who recently put on a pageant of New York women from 1775 on. Today's costume is more generous through hips, shoulders, armholes, waistline than the costume of any preceding period. It's old stuff, of course, to comment that today's woman is larger because she is more active and spends her life doing something more than viewing with alarm an eight-inch gain in her waistline!

THE TINYMITES
STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK
REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

(Read The Story, Then Color The Picture)

The black birds soared out through the air, and Scouty shouted, "Have a care! The seat we're on is none too safe. It gives me quite a fright. If one bird opens up its bill, the vine will drop, and we will spill. We're riding so high in the air, we'd fall right out of sight."

"That's very true," said Coppy, "but I'm sure they'll keep their big bills shut. I wonder where they're taking us. Perhaps just for a ride. I like this trip, I must admit. It doesn't frighten me one bit." Then Clowny broke right in.

"Just look ahead of us," he cried. "A mountain top, as plain as day, and we are heading right that way. We'll surely crash against it if the birds don't rise a bit." The Tynmites then began to groan. The mountain top was made of stone. They realized that it would be an awful place to hit.

"Tim scared to look, one Tiny cried. 'We're almost at the mountain side.' Just then they felt a sudden jerk, and shot up in the air. The mountain top was now below, and Clowny shouted, 'Oh, oh, oh! I'm mighty glad we missed it. That was really quite a scare.' They rode around an hour or so. Then Coppy shouted, 'Down we go!'

And, sure enough, the two big birds began to slowly drop. 'Ah, there's a valley,' Scouty cried. 'With mountains round on every side. It looks real safe to me. I hope that's where we're going to stop.'

A real nice clear place soon was found. The big birds landed on the ground. The Tynmites all jumped off free and then the birds flew out of sight. 'I see a queer man, all alone,' said Coppy. 'He's made out of stone. At first I thought that he was real. He looked that way all right.'

(The Tynmites have a feed in the next story.)

"Bridge Me Another"

1. Is eating on the street bad manners?
2. Does a person with really good manners ever chew gum publicly?
3. How should one dispose of paper or rubbish on the street?

THE ANSWERS

1. Yes.
2. Never.
3. A well-bred person has civic pride enough to put it in receptacles and never strew it about the streets.

BREAKFAST—Baked rhubarb, cereal, cream, scrambled eggs with fried beef, graham muffins, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Creamed sardines on toast, button radishes and spring onions, coconut cookies, milk, tea.

DINNER—Mutton chops stuffed with sausage, scalloped potatoes, dandelion greens, jellied nut and celery salad, cheese cups, lemon cracker pudding, milk, coffee.

Jellied Nut and Celery Salad

One cup nut meats, 1 1/2 cups minced celery, 1-2 cup heavy cream, 1 tablespoon granulated gelatine, 4 tablespoons cold water, 1 egg yolk, 3-4 cup salad oil, 1 tablespoon vinegar, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1-2 teaspoon pepper.

Mix sugar, salt and pepper with egg yolk. Beat in a few drops of vinegar. Add 1 tablespoon oil. Drop by drop, beating constantly. Beat in a few drops of vinegar. Continue adding oil and vinegar alternately in this fashion until 1-4 cup oil is used. Then add oil in a slow stream beating constantly until all is used. Beat in remaining lemon juice. Soften gelatine in cold water and dissolve over hot water. Add slowly to mayonnaise, beating constantly. Fold in cream beaten until firm. Add nuts and celery and turn into a mold first dipped in cold water. Let stand several hours or overnight and serve on a bed of shredded new cabbage which has been carefully crisped in cold water. EAT THE
THEATER

YOST BROADWAY THEATER

If you should happen to be one of those persons who tells little lies just to avoid a little explaining "That's My Daddy" starring Reginald Denny at the Yost Broadway theater, was made especially for your joy.

The picture is almost unparalleled in its supreme humor. It shows just what might happen to a person telling a white lie for somebody else's benefit. It plunges the benign Denny into a labyrinth of situations which require the adding to the original lie to such an extent that Denny is no longer himself.

Barbara Kent is delightful as the nurse-maid. She is attractive and deserves all cinema honors which have been heaped upon her in her year and a half in motion pictures.

Lillian Rich is exceedingly statuesque in her society role and as without doubt one of the most stunning blondes on the screen. There is a little girl in this picture called Jane La Verne. This we are told, is her first picture but it looks as though she had been on the screen about fifteen years she is so clever. But that couldn't be so, for she is just four years old.

Mathilde Brundage and Armand Kaliz are exceptional as is the entire supporting cast including Wilson Benge, Charles Coleman and Art Currier.

WEST COAST-WALKER

"Love and Learn" latest production in which the beautiful blonde actress, Esther Ralston is starred appeared yesterday at the West Coast-Walker theater for a three-day engagement. The picture is a most amusing one, and serves to add to Miss Ralston's notable achievements.

The picture was directed by Frank Tuttle, which is enough of a recommendation without anything further stated here. Mr. Tuttle has taken the story, and for one thing, has made Miss Ralston stand out as a truly versatile actress, as due to the many humorous situations, Miss Ralston has been called upon to enact the role of a comedienne, and he has done so very creditably.

Another angle not to be overlooked is the work of Lane Chandler, who until now had been seen in Western pictures, and with "Love and Learn" has started his "society" career in pictures, handled his role admirably. He is a handsome young man, and is sure to captivate the hearts of the young women movie fans in this nation.

Others who help swing this fine picture along are: Hedda Hopper as Miss Ralston's or "Nancy Blake's" mother; Robert King as her father; Jack Clark as Hansen; Guy Oliver as the detective, and others.

WEST END THEATER

Patrons of the West End theater were enthusiastic last evening as the result of the showing of "The Branded Sombbrero," a production starring Buck Jones. The intrepid Westerner gives a brilliant performance as Starr Hallett, who, undaunted by misfortune wins the heart of Connie Marsh, played by Lella Hyams.

The supporting cast includes Francis Ford, Josephine Borio and Leo Kelley.

GETS 3 YEARS IN JAIL HERE FOR BIGAMY

Two husbands, plus a court record in Long Beach and an experience in the Los Angeles county hospital which Superior Judge E. J. Marks regarded as questionable had resulted today in Pearl Wright Bench, 28, of Los Angeles, beginning a three-year term in the county jail for bigamy.

Chief Deputy District Attorney L. W. Blodget placed before the court yesterday records of Mrs. Bench's past, including a letter from the Los Angeles probation officer, who said he regarded the woman as a menace to society, and believed her to be immoral, unmoral and incapable of taking care of herself.

Mrs. Bench married Jack Blum-burg, Los Angeles, over a month ago, before she had disposed of her first husband. She admitted this act and attempted to justify it by saying she had wedded Blum-burg for protection from her first husband.

She denied other shady statements about her past in the face of black and white official records, bringing from Judge Marks the remark that he is satisfied that she has deliberately committed perjury.

Records produced by Blodget showed that Mrs. Bench had been in court in Long Beach following her arrest for violation of a rooming house ordinance. She was in court here yesterday on an application for probation. Last week Friday she had expected to get a decision on the case, but Judge Marks evinced an interest in suggestions on her past misadventures and Blodget began an investigation. Yesterday the court gave her probation from a penitentiary sentence, but told her that in return for that leniency, she would have to spend three years in the jail here. She will be on probation for five years and was ordered to make monthly reports to Leroy Warren, probation officer, after her release.

VILLA PARK

VILLA PARK, April 23.—Mrs. H. D. Nichols and Mrs. E. J. Story motored to Long Beach Tuesday. Mrs. Story remained to visit for a few days with Mrs. George Miller before returning home.

Word has been received from Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Clapool, who went to Arizona several months ago for Mr. Clapool's health, that Mrs. Clapool is improving and Mrs. Clapool is planning to return here soon.

J. B. Handy, of Laguna Beach, spent Tuesday and Wednesday in Villa Park overseeing work on his ranch.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Walsh and children, of Compton, spent Saturday night and Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Hanselman.

REINSTATING ETHICS

Business ethics are to be made a part of the curriculum of schools of higher education, according to Dean Ralph E. Heilman, who announces that such a course has been made possible at Northwestern by a gift of $25,000 by Miss Cora Vawter.

"In the development of business education, the necessity for developing a strong sense of social and ethical obligations in business transactions has been largely overlooked," says Dean Ralph E. Heilman. "If departments of commerce in our colleges and universities provide the rising generation with a greater mastery of business technique and methods without developing a strong sense of the moral obligations of the business man, the result must be disastrous."

The splitting up of morals and ethics into various divisions as business ethics, ethics for lawyers, etc., is rather puzzling. One would think that a good dose of ethics would suffice for an individual, whether he was to be a lawyer, a doctor, a business man or an engineer. And it would. But the reason for this new emphasis and new plan of administering ethics is due largely to a neglect during the last few years of any sort of ethics. In the trend away from classical courses in schools of higher education toward special stress on professional and technical courses such as banking, business administration, law and engineering, philosophy and ethics have been quite largely neglected. The course as mapped out with every effort put forth to concentrate the greatest amount of learning in one particular field in the shortest possible time, has neglected everything which does not have a very direct and evident bearing on the intellectual stock-in-trade of the lawyer, the engineer, the banker or the doctor. And, at first, those outlining the courses were so short-sighted that they didn't see that philosophy and sociology and ethics had an important and direct bearing.

In consequence of the omission of distinct courses on morals and ethics, each profession now has adopted rules and regulations or "ethics" of its own. The doctors have their "code of ethics"; the lawyers their "code of ethics"; the dentists their "code of ethics"; so it goes on down through business. The lumbermen have their "code." Contractors have theirs. Plumbers, even, have theirs.

When one begins to examine closely these codes or rules governing the conduct of the individual members of the organization which issued the "code" one begins to realize that many of these rules of "ethics," so-called, have no relation to equity, justice or morals. In fact, in some cases quite the contrary. For example, from the standpoint of the public, an individual would be doing a very commendable act to give his professional services, labor, or goods for less than a certain margin of profit or even so low as to eliminate all profit. But to do this would not be "ethical" in any of these lines of labor. Yes, it is time that real ethics were taught for business and professions.

THE CHURCH IN POLITICS

There always has been a distrust of the church in politics. Clerical control in government has not always worked for the best ends of government. The clerics were pretty much in control of New England for two generations after the landing of the Pilgrims, and their control was attended with a great many abuses. Among them was intolerance, leading to witchcraft persecutions, and to banishment from the colony. In Russia, in France and elsewhere there has been a reaction against clerical control, as we well know.

But it depends upon what the church is after, whether it is desirable for the church to be in politics. The church has been very much in politics in Chicago the last few months. Prayer meetings were held, the pulpits rang with denunciation of malfeasance and corruption in high office; church people organized and served as watchers at the polls. It was the church in politics; but it was not for political control, but for the everyday moralities that the church was in politics. The church has been very much in politics for the last generation against the liquor traffic. Again it was for moral ends.

A prominent minister in Los Angeles had an article in the Atlantic monthly recently criticizing the church for meddling in politics and industrial affairs. By this time he knows what some of his fellow ministers think of his position. They refuse to be dumb in the face of abuses that neutralize and destroy all the good that they are trying to do in the formation of character and the cleaning up of a bad and pernicious environment. If it is not their business to speak out when lechery and corruption are rampant and sapping the vitals of society life, they ask, why should they continue to study the work of the great prophets of the Bible who were up to their necks in politics. They thundered against kings and politicians with a vigor and abandon that have made them the exemplars of all prophets who should come after them.

When the church gets into politics for the purpose of opposing those of another faith, it is on the wrong track. When Methodist supports Methodist simply because he is a Methodist, or Presbyterian supports Presbyterian for the same reason, they are on the wrong track. But when, as in Chicago recently, the church rises up in its might to strike down thuggery and corruption in high places she is doing a necessary part of her work. And when the church becomes indifferent to these moral disorders, she surrenders her place of high duty and becomes the scorn of men. The church has shown what it can do for sobriety and good government in the past. Along that line lies her work quite as much as in the cure of souls and in the work of consolation and charity.

NOT GUILTY

Our system of jurisprudence received another staggering blow on Saturday when the jury in the case of the government against Harry F. Sinclair brought in a verdict of "not guilty." The charge against Sinclair was "conspiring to defraud the government." The members of the jury have since declared that there was ground for reasonable doubt in their minds, at the conclusion of the trial. Hence their verdict.

The United States Supreme court in setting aside the oil lease, which was the means by which the alleged fraud was committed, declared that it was entirely permeated with fraud and for that reason set it aside. The chief beneficiary of that lease was Harry F. Sinclair in whose interest, necessarily, this fraud, according to the Supreme court, had been committed. The money and the bonds in the transaction, which passed one from the other, passed from Sinclair to Fall, from the one in whose interest the lease was made to the one who made the lease on behalf of the government. But a jury says: "Not Guilty." Would an intelligent group of men, capable of being judges, have decided in the same way? Would a court have reached this decision if under our procedure the trial could have been to the court rather than to the jury?

There is a most serious reaction against the many miscarriages of justice observable on every hand. Through one process and another it is difficult to mete out the same kind of justice to the wealthy and influential that it is to the friendless and the poor. The value of our judicial system does not lie, in many cases, in its reaching a fair and just verdict but rather in the fact that it reaches a conclusion and settles the matter of litigation without physical strife.

It is well illustrated in the story of the lawyer who was walking down the street with a judge and as he reached the court-house the lawyer remarked to the judge, as they parted, "Well, you must go in and mete out justice. I am going on to prepare to defend my client." And the judge replied, "I don't mete out justice. I simply make decisions." He may have said it in humor but there is too much truth in the statement, particularly as it applies to juries.

A WHIRLIGIG

Now comes the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment and announces, with a big flourish of trumpets, by "inspired news," that they have made an addition to their board of directors of seventy men, "directors and officers of organizations employing two million men and women and representing more than forty billions of dollars in combined assets."

Note how adroitly this is worded. We looked over this list. In some cases we are confident that the individual mentioned is the only one of the directors of the corporation referred to who agrees with the wet propaganda. In almost no case does he represent a majority of the organization. And probably the whole seventy men, when it comes to really financing the project, or being willing to get behind it financially, would be willing to contribute about $50 apiece, which would sum up to about $3500, and these men have as much influence over the two million employees, if that is the number, as Senator Heflin has with the Pope. But such stories as were sent out may aid in sufficiently encouraging others of lesser importance to make contributions to keep the paid staff employed. And it's the paid staff that gets out these stories.

OUR CHILDREN

By Angelo Patri

FIRST

Miss Maria blew the whistle. Recess was over. The second grade raced for the line. In orderly fashion one small person lined up behind the other, heads up, eyes front, waiting the signal to march to the room. The quiet and orderly array was broken by a smart scuffle. Smothered cries of, "I'm first." "You're not." "I am so." and much pushing and pulling and tugging of the line brought the teacher to the spot in a hurry.

Two small children were locked in close embrace, wrestling for first place while those behind them clasped arms about the waist of the one in front prepared to hold their places in spite of battle and death.

"What's this, what's this?"
"Bernie wants to be first and I'm first."
"Bernie, where do you belong?"
"I belong head but they made me go down foot, I'm first."

"No'm. He isn't. He's foot. He was late and he was absent too. Teacher put him foot."
"Bernie," came the voice of authority, "go down foot."
Breathing threat and violence Bernie swaggered to the foot. "I'm first just the same, remember," said he breathing hard. "I'm always first. You'll see."

Bernie had to be first or know why. Usually he knew why. He could neither earn nor hold first place in class whether it were a place on a line or a standing in class. He was so vain, so conceited, so self-concerned that he got in the way of his own growth. The class had banded against his vanity and held out against him on all occasions.

His mother always thought that Bernie had the worst of it. "They are all jealous of him because he is the smartest. He ought to be first but the children are so mean they won't give in and the teacher never takes his part. He is really first only they won't give in."

It really did not matter whether he was first or fourth or last one the line. The teacher seated the children according to height or vision or hearing, or recitation opportunities. But Bernie had fixed the idea in his mind that being first was a matter of greatest importance. His family had taught him that being first, getting ahead of his mates, being prominent always, was to gain merit and honor.

Beating other children in games or lessons, standing first, is not necessary to a child's success. The only person he need beat is the one that lives inside his own jacket. If he does that, if he makes that person know that his will is the law, that his work is important to his own success, that all selfishness and vanity and nonsense are to be trained out of his soul, he will do well. Very well.

The pupil who is number one, the pupil who wins the most points, the pupil who passes all his mates in competitions is not necessarily the most successful human being. A child can live happily and well in the last place, provided it is HIS place.

LOST LABOR

Harvard is to aid in producing better movies. Though the state of the screen, as it's recently made by the Hollywood people is such that perhaps it could not be improved by the aid of a cultural classical touch, it still has some failings, and faults, I admit. As its makers themselves would acknowledge, And it might, I am certain be bettered a bit With the help of the staff of a college.

Inasmuch as at night, when from work I recoil I'm persuaded quite often to go To banish my worries and rest from my toil To the handiest cinema show. I was cheered when I learned that the college men mean To take up the weighty assignment Of keeping the punch on the popular screen, But adding some grace and refinement.

No doubt when it's doctored by men of the stamp Whom sentiment never can sway The film will be freed from the wiles of the vamp And the sheik will be banished away. No maudlin emotion will move us to sobbs We'll have seen the pash kiss for the last time And the movies will have the real soul stirring throbs Of a pure intellectual pastime.

When films are constructed with reason and brains When they're neither sissy nor rough When there aren't any cowboys, nor wild western plains And nobody does the old stuff, When the learned professors from all that is cheap And tawdry and commonplace free them Beyond any doubt they'll be better a heap, But who'll give a dog-gone to see them?

Dr. Crane's Friendly Talk

By Dr. Frank Crane

THE HILLS OF COCKAIGNE

An old medieval ballad tells of an imaginary land of Cockaigne where the hills were good to eat and drink and where nobody ever was obliged to work.

The chances are digits to ciphers, although the ballad doesn't contain the information, that the most immoral place in that whole ancient world was Cockaigne. Having to work is the thing that keeps most people out of jail.

If we could nibble at a hill or two when we got hungry, instead of having to produce our pabulum by the sweat of our brows, most of us would become either nuisances or menaces over night.

Knowing we will have to feed the horses, punch the time-clock, or turn out the article the next morning, helps us to go to bed when we should, at food that is good for us, and in general remain the pillars of society that we are.

With the hills of Cockaigne around the corner, routine would be necessary and our moral fibre would be weakened by its going.

Anyhow, after a week or so of having hill for breakfast, hill for luncheon, hill for dinner—each time chasing it down with strong draughts of hill—the most enthusiastic Cockaignean would commit a murder or two in desperation to relieve the monotony. After the second day he would be longing to be back on the old job where he could look over the menu at Casey's Lunch when noon came and chose what he would have for sustenance.

Punching a time-clock may be boring, but nothing like as boring as eating hill three times a day for there hundred and sixty-five days a year would be.

The time when nations produce their greatest inventions and improvements, if we take the word of the wise Lord Bacon, is during the period of middle age.

In youth they are given to arms and martial activities. Then after the struggle they settle down and make their real contribution to advancement. Then comes the period of decay and self-satisfaction which descends to license and demoralizing luxury.

Neither in the extreme youth nor the extreme old age of a nation is the man who improves the world given the credit that is his due. In the former time, his contribution is lost in the din of war; the latter it is unappreciated unless it adds to the immediate ease of existence.

So, a land of Cockaigne, beside being a place of little moral eminence, would be a land of old age where stagnation replaces effort and where improvements are unknown.

Edible hills are fine themes for ancient ballads. But it would not take many to run the best of nations. It is a good thing for all of us that the hills of Cockaigne never materialize.

Thoughts On Modern Life

OLD DOGS AND NEW TRICKS

You can't teach an old dog new tricks.

So runs an ancient adage that has exerted a profound influence on the development of our educational policies and procedures.

From our beginning as a nation we have pinned our faith to education, but education has in the main meant to the American mind the schooling of the young.

Of course, we are a newspaper-buying, magazine-reading, book-collecting, lecture-hearing nation, and we sometimes speak of the educational influence of these things, but, by and large, our notion of real education is something that happens when we are young.

There is, in fact, a widespread notion that youth is, in every way, the best learning time.

E. L. Thorndike, of Columbia University, has long been working away, with controlled experiments on the problem of the learning process at various age levels.

His research has gone far toward exploding the old adage that you can't teach an old dog new tricks.

Mr. Thorndike is just releasing, through his publishers, a new book on Adult Education, in which he summarizes the results of his researches into the relative learning facility of the years of childhood, adolescence, and adult life.

This is the conclusion to which his extensive experiments have led him:

"In general, nobody under forty-five should restrain himself from trying to learn anything because of a belief or fear that he is too old."

old to be able to learn it. Nor should he use that fear as an excuse for not learning anything which he ought to learn. If he fails in learning it, inability due directly to age will very rarely, if ever, be the reason."

Mr. Thorndike's researches would seem to suggest that, from 25 to 45 we are clearly better able to learn than in childhood, and at least as well, if not better, able to learn than during early adolescence.

Mr. Thorndike's book is a revolutionary document; it carries both comfort and challenge between its covers; it has three important implications: First, it tells the man of 25 or 30 who has missed the advantages of schooling that it is not too late to learn, to become an educated man.

Second, it tells the rah-rah college man that his learning days are not over, that his continuing capacity to learn is a continuing challenge to learn, and that he should not let his brain go rusty, on the assumption that if he furnished his opportunities in college his chance to become an educated man is gone.

Third, it tells the schoolmen that they may have to revise their school system, that they may be teaching youngsters a lot of things that could better be learned later. It is a shame that it is not possible for someone to issue an executive order that would compel every schoolman, in particular, and every American adult between the ages of 25 and 45, in general, to read this book.

An Old Cry Heard Again

Christian Science Monitor

The cry that modern mechanical inventions would take the bread from their mouths that was raised by the workmen of the United States during the latter half of last century has echoed around the world, the latest voice being raised in Seoul, Korea. The 2000 Jinrikisha pullers of that city, with the 8000 dependent members of their families, are protesting against the establishment of a municipal bus system in the Korean capital.

The United States had to learn through actual experience that increased productivity through better mechanical facilities does not reduce the demand for labor but actually stimulates it. Not only the factory workers but the factory laborer profits by every bit of machinery which performs the work formerly accomplished by human hands. It would seem that the peoples of other lands would profit by the American example, but so far they have shown an inclination to be convinced on this question only by their own experience.

The 2000 ricksha men of Seoul will have that experience. Bitterly as they may protest now, within a few years' time, after the readjustment has been made, they will be deeply thankful and grateful that their old and arduous calling has sunk into the discard. They will find themselves employed in pleasant and, in all likelihood, more profitable work.

We Let Political Parties "Use Us"

Fresno Morning Republican

There is no merit in the "you're another" argument, taken by itself. Sometimes, however, it is a wholesome thing to note that certain defects in human nature are due to frequent or universal causes, rather than to particular alignments of people. A thing may "break out" in a particular spot, without being characteristic of that spot. It may be ready to break out in many spots.

So, when something bad happens in Illinois politics, and it is observed that the partisan control in Illinois is "Republican," it may not be good reasoning to suppose that the Republican party control is the cause of the disorder. The same thing might have happened with Democratic or Socialist or Prohibition or Farmer-Labor party control. The Republicans of Illinois may be scared, but the citizens of Illinois would be foolish merely to change from one party to another with the idea that one party is clean and the other is not. A change will be imperative. But what shall that change consist of must be a matter for profound political judgment, not of party ballyhoos.

The idea that evil politics in Illinois could be cured by party change would be just as foolish as to suppose that evil conditions in Alabama could be cured by change from the Democratic to the Republican or the Socialist party. The change might help. Or the change might merely put in a bunch of ideal minded amateurs or a group of self serving office seekers.

What we need to do is to "use" political parties, not to let them use us. We do not use them enough. They use us too much.

Where Arbitration Worked

Oakland Tribune

Dispute over possession of an island, between the United States and Holland, is settled against us by arbitration and the fact is worth scarcely a line in the day's news. The reason is, Palmas Island is a tiny one of almost no value and not that we are so accustomed to arbitrating international questions that we accept verdict without protest or comment.

Palmas is on the far border of the Philippine archipelago, a speck overlooked when the country accepted from Spain the Philippines. When there are six or seven thousand islands in a parcel, one or two may drop through the net without being missed. Palmas was one, the farthest southeast of all and is only about half the size of Central Park in New York.

It was 22 years ago when Leonard Wood, on an inspection tour, stopped at the place and was surprised when natives, rowing out to meet him, carried a Dutch flag. They explained that a Dutch ship called there once a year for coira and the captain had left the flag with instructions that it be displayed.

When Holland was questioned, the reply was the natives owed allegiance to tribes in the Netherlands East Indies and an agreement was reached to arbitrate the question. Spain said she meant to give Palmas to the United States along with the Philippines, but the arbitrator, a Swiss, decided the Dutch had the best claim. There are about 458 people on the island and as many acres of land.
